

9. PRICING

a. ARC establishes standard pricing, which is reviewed periodically and then posted on the company's website. Prices are subject to change throughout the year or based on other factors noted below. In-person professional development provided outside the continental U.S. may be subject to additional fees. ARC's current standard prices appear on its website (<https://www.americanreading.com/about-us/ordering-info/>). ARC prices are typically valid ninety (90) days from date of proposal, although ARC reserves the right to modify pricing before any quote is accepted by ARC.

b. ARC will endeavor to provide similar pricing for similar-sized purchases made by the Customer which contain similar product, grade, and delivery configurations that ARC has provided to similar-sized school districts in the same state and in the same fiscal year (July 1–June 30). Examples of exclusions include, but are not limited to: multiyear contracts, customized solutions typical of larger school districts, pricing requirements imposed by regulatory agencies, volume discounts and other changes ARC deems necessary or advisable based on business need.

c. ARC does not typically discount from its standard pricing except where economies of scale allow ARC to provide cost efficiencies to Customers who purchase directly from ARC in large volumes. Customers who purchase $10,000,000 or more in materials at one time may receive a 2% discount on all materials purchased directly through ARC if agreed to by ARC prior to purchase. Certain conditions and exclusions may apply and shall be addressed prior to the time of purchase.

For Customers who purchase less than $10,000,000 in materials at one time, economies of scale also apply. Tiered pricing based on the number of students of schools (e.g., SchoolPace/eIRLA), or number of ARC professional development sessions purchased is provided on the price list provided to the Customer.

For Customers who purchase less than $10,000,000 in materials at one time directly from ARC, cost efficiencies on Research Lab® Units 2–4 will be provided where economies of scale allow ARC to do so. Total number of units is calculated by grade and by unit. Grades and units cannot be combined.

Number of Research Lab Units Purchased	Maximum Price reduction
150–200 units	3%
200–250 units	5%
Over 250 units	7%

d. ARC reserves the right to charge a temporary inflation surcharge for any remaining, as yet undelivered, materials or in-person PD if at any time the Consumer Price Index (CPI)- Transportation or Consumer Price Index (CPI)- Goods and Services increase by 5% or more, year over year.

e. As a continuous improvement company, ARC anticipates new print and digital products and enhancements may occur over the term of any multi-year contract. Should an ARC product be discontinued, ARC will exchange it with a comparable product substitution. In the event the customer wishes to substitute new ARC products for materials, ARC will work with the customer to negotiate mutually agreeable substitutions to ensure that the customer has access to appropriate materials. However, if the product(s) is not materially similar to the product it is replacing, the parties will negotiate in good faith a replacement product(s) to meet customer's needs. Some restrictions may apply to ARC's digital products.
