Caveat lector!

There is nothing set in this world, not even syllabi. This document will change as needed.

Goals

I will offer you a culturally-informed understanding of Western music between 1580 and 1630.

- 1) You will get a first-hand acquaintance with the “art” music traditions of the time.
- 2) You will gain insight into relevant musical, historical and cultural issues.
- 3) You will read some current scholarship.
- 4) You will develop your writing skills.

Overview

This course provides you with the basic information on period composers, genres and styles through a systematic review. It goes beyond review, though, to address fifteenth- and sixteenth-century music at a graduate level, engaging directly with music, selected primary sources, and pieces of academic research.

Writing is an important component of this class. You are expected to understand class materials and issues, and to be able to pull out of them significant information and produce an overview or abstract. Interaction and debate are other important components of this class. You will discuss issues with your peers, review their contributions and be reviewed by them.

Course Contents

Readings for this class chiefly consist of chapters from Heller's Music in the Baroque (see below), selected primary sources, musicological articles and other texts (on PDF). Additional materials, including articles, scores and recordings, will be available through our Learn site. The textbook and its companion anthology are on permanent reserve at the music library.

We will first focus on technical concepts: "schools," "generations," styles, and genres. We will then deepen on related social practices and historical events. We will not commonly deal with biographical or anecdotal information beyond basic data needed to understand the subject. Chronology will form the core of our approach. The well-established series of generations (G1 to G5) in conjunction with the functional division between church music, secular part-song, and instrumental music will then form the backbone of our course.

Historical knowledge will be the object of three online tests (with dictionary-style definitions and an essay) that you will take once. Style and genre knowledge will be the object of a dedicated online test that you can take multiple times (details TBD).

An array of activities will help you apply and solidify this knowledge, including the selection and discussion of three pieces related to class examples, three debate sessions, a practical exercise, and multiple responses to your peers' postings.

Textbook

Heller, Wendy. Music in the Baroque. New York: W. W. Norton, 2013.

Listening Assignments

This class is about music. It is first and foremost oriented towards introducing you to the different genres and styles of Western music between 1580 and 1630. Listening is crucial to gain first-hand knowledge of the matter. Repertoire for each topic is included in the online topical pages.

You are expected to devote a substantial amount of time weekly to listening to the selections, score in hand. You should also take notes on the pieces as you listen to them, on matters of style (counterpoint, texture, thematic handling, use of preexisting materials, use of imitation, formal devices, tonality/mode, etc.), and bring both score and notes to class for the discussions.

You are responsible for recognizing all of the styles and genres covered by the class, even if we do not get to discuss them during lecture time. You do not need to memorize every bit of every assigned piece, but instead you must learn the general stylistic features of genres (opera, monody, toccata, cantata, sonata, etc.), their types or varieties ("Florentine" opera, "Venetian" opera, French tragedie lyrique, etc.) and the dates and places where they were cultivated. This knowledge will be the object of the online recognition test

Requirements

- 1) Three essay tests (online).
- 2) At least one online recognition test of both scores and audio clips. You must get 80 % or higher on the main test. You can retake this test multiple times (the highest grade will count).
- 3) Participation in three debate exercises: some class sessions will be devoted to debating on historical issues relevant for us (the meaning of Baroque, Baroque music and power, Baroque music, globalization, and colonialism). In order to get full credit you must actively participate in the debate.
- 4) Three blog entries (early, middle, and late Baroque): pick up a score or recording tightly related to a class example (typically belonging to the same style and genre). Demonstrate that relationship in writing (one or two paragraphs) through the appropriate technical terms. You can find examples in websites such as imslp.org, cpdl.org, youtube.com, or in the library; you must include a file or a link together with your entry.

5) No less than five responses to your peers' blog postings.

6) One analysis of a mid-Baroque piece (about 1500 words).

7) Your active participation in class discussions. Grades are assigned at the end of the class. Very frequent participation = A, frequent participation = B, some participation = C, rare participation = D, very rare to no participation = F. Please be aware that this item may pull your final grade up or down by a full letter grade.

Grading Policy

Three unit tests	36
Recognition test	12
Debate participation	12
Three blog entries	15
Five responses	10
One practical exercise	08
Class participation	07
Total	100

Attendance Policy

Attendance is required for this course. Roll will be checked for each class period.

- a) Each unexcused absence after the third one will be penalized with the subtraction of five class points from your grade.

- b) All absences from a scheduled presentation will be penalized with the subtraction of five class points from your grade.
- c) Since late arrivals and early departures cut into class time and are disruptive, these will also count as absences. Arriving ten minutes after the hour will get you half an absence. After twenty minutes, a whole absence will be counted.
- d) Please refer to the UNT policy manual for a definition of what constitutes an excused absence. Basically, if you miss class due to your participation in official university business, absences are excused.
- e) While attendance is an important part of succeeding in this class, your own health, and those of others in the community, is more important. It is important that you communicate with me prior to being absent, so we can discuss and mitigate the impact of the absence on your attainment of the course learning goals. Please inform me if you are unable to attend class meetings because you are ill, in mindfulness of the health and safety of everyone in our community. Contact the UNT COVID Team at COVID@unt.edu for guidance on actions to take due to symptoms, pending or positive test results, or potential exposure.

Face Coverings

UNT encourages everyone to wear a face covering when indoors, regardless of vaccination status, to protect yourself and others from COVID infection, as recommended by current CDC guidelines. Face covering guideline could change based on community health conditions.

Doubts?

Please feel free to contact me if you have any question or problem. I mean it! I am available to talk to you during my office hours or by appointment. You can also contact me through e-mail, or phone my office (see above).

Student Behavior

Student behavior that interferes with an instructor's ability to conduct a class or other students' opportunity to learn is unacceptable and disruptive and will not be tolerated in any instructional forum at UNT. Students engaging in unacceptable behavior will be directed to leave the classroom and the instructor may refer the student to the Dean of Students to consider whether the student's conduct violated the Code of Student Conduct. The university's expectations for student conduct apply to all instructional forums, including university and electronic classrooms, labs, discussion groups, field trips, etc. See Student Code of Conduct

Academic Integrity

All tests and assignments for this class should be the product of individual work, unless otherwise indicated. Students caught cheating or plagiarizing will receive a "0" for that particular assignment. Students who repeatedly engage in cheating or plagiarism will receive an "F" for the class. Additionally, the incident will be reported to the Dean of Students (Office of Academic Integrity), who may impose further penalty.

According to the UNT catalog, the term "cheating" includes, but is not limited to:

- a. use of any unauthorized assistance to take quizzes, tests, or examinations;
- b. dependence upon the aid of sources beyond those authorized by the instructor in writing papers, preparing reports, solving problems or carrying out other assignments;
- c. acquisition, without permission, of tests, notes or other academic materials belonging to a faculty or staff member of the university;
- d. dual submission of a paper or project, or re-submission of a paper or project to a different class without express permission from the instructor; or
- e. any other act designed to give a student an unfair advantage.

The term “plagiarism” includes, but is not limited to:

- a. the knowing or negligent use by paraphrase or direct quotation of the published or unpublished work of another person without full and clear acknowledgment.
- b. the knowing or negligent unacknowledged use of materials prepared by another person or by an agency engaged in selling term papers or other academic materials.

See Academic Integrity.

ACCESS TO INFORMATION – EAGLE CONNECT

Your access point for business and academic services at UNT occurs at my.unt.edu. All official communication from the university will be delivered to your Eagle Connect account. For more information, please visit the website that explains Eagle Connect. See Eagle Connect

ODA STATEMENT

The University of North Texas makes reasonable academic accommodation for students with disabilities. Students seeking accommodation must first register with the Office of Disability Access (ODA) to verify their eligibility. If a disability is verified, the ODA will provide you with an accommodation letter. You can now request your Letters of Accommodation ONLINE and ODA will mail your Letters of Accommodation to your instructors. You may wish to begin a private discussion with your professors regarding your specific needs in a course. Note that students must obtain a new letter of accommodation for every semester. For additional information see the Office of Disability Access. See ODA. Phone: (940) 565-4323

UNT POLICY STATEMENT ON DIVERSITY

UNT values diversity and individuality as part of advancing ideals of human worth, dignity and academic excellence. Diverse viewpoints enrich open discussion, foster the examination of values and exposure of biases, help educate people in rational conflict resolution and responsive leadership, and prepare us for the complexities of a pluralistic society. As such, UNT is committed to maintaining an open, welcoming atmosphere that attracts qualified students, staff, and faculty from all groups to support their success. UNT does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, age, disability, genetic information, or veteran status in its application and admission process, educational programs and activities, employment policies and use of university facilities.

FINANCIAL AID AND SATISFACTORY ACADEMIC PROGRESS

A student must maintain Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) to continue to receive financial aid. Students must maintain a minimum 3.0 cumulative GPA in addition to successfully completing a required number of credit hours based on total registered hours per term. Music scholarships require a 3.5 cumulative GPA. Students cannot exceed maximum timeframes established based on the published length of the graduate program. If a student does not maintain the required standards, the student may lose their financial aid eligibility.

If at any point you consider dropping this or any other course, please be advised that the decision to do so may have the potential to affect your current and future financial aid eligibility. It is recommended you schedule a meeting with an academic advisor in your college, an advisor in UNT-International or visit the Student Financial Aid and Scholarships office to discuss dropping a course. See Financial Aid

RETENTION OF STUDENT RECORDS

Student records pertaining to this course are maintained in a secure location by the instructor of record. All records such as exams, answer sheets (with keys), and written papers submitted during the duration of the course are kept for at least one calendar year after course completion. Course work completed via the Canvas online system, including grading information and comments, is also stored in a safe electronic environment for one year. You have a right to view your individual record; however, information about your records will not be divulged to other individuals without the proper written consent. You are encouraged to review the Public Information Policy and the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) laws and the university's policy in accordance with those mandates. See FERPA

COUNSELING AND TESTING

UNT's Center for Counseling and Testing has an available counselor whose position includes 16 hours per week of dedicated service to students in the College of Music and the College of Visual Arts and Design. Please visit the Center's website for further information. See Counseling and Testing. For more information on mental health issues, please visit Mental Health Issues.
