Course Description

This course introduces the students to the international relations and politics of the Middle East including critical security issues. The course consists of 3 parts:

Part 1 gives a brief survey of the rise of the state system in the Middle East and examines the crisis of authority and identity.

Part 2 explores Middle East Regional Relations and the involvement of the Middle East in the international system.
Part 3 focuses on ethnic, sectarian, religious threats, and interstate conflicts in the Middle East and the response of the great powers to these conflicts. These threats and conflicts include the rise of ISIS, instability in Afghanistan, Iraq, Lebanon, Syria, and Yemen, the Palestinian-Israeli conflict, and the Persian Gulf wars. Due to the political nature of these topics, there is more than one side to each of these issues. The professor will make a determined effort to avoid the discussion of these issues from a single ideological perspective and will provide opportunities for informative and critical evaluation and discussion. The quality of class discussion will depend upon the students' preparedness, interest, and their reading of the weekly assignments.

Course Requirements

Your final grade for the course consists of the following categories:

1) Class Attendance

   Class Attendance Is Mandatory. Unexcused absences after the fourth absence will result in the student losing three points from the final grade for the course. Unexcused absences after the seventh absence will result in the student losing additional seven points from the final grade for the course. Students who leave the classroom during the lecture will be treated as being absent from the class. Students should turn off their cell phones during the class.
2) Class Participation and Weekly Readings.

10% of the final grade

Class participation is mandatory and will affect your final grade. The quality of class discussion will depend upon the students' preparedness and interest. You should read the weekly assignments and be prepared to answer questions and comment on the readings. Every week students must submit a 2-3 page summary of the main points of the weekly readings. Email your summaries to shreetishrestha@my.unt.edu

During class discussions students should also relate their weekly readings to current affairs. The weekly readings summaries will count for 10% of your final grade.

3) A Ten Page Group Policy Recommendation:

Due April 20, 2019

10% of the final grade

The professor will divide the class into 4 study groups and assign each group a policy issue. Each students’ group will examine the historical background of the issue and the problems associated with the issue and offer policy recommendations of how to deal with the problems. Each policy group will have a team leader who will organize the group meetings and divide research assignment tasks among his or her team. The group leader should submit to me bi-weekly report on the student’s performance and progress in their group policy paper. He or she should also submit to me electronically the final group policy recommendations to my e-mail emile.sahliyeh@unt.edu by April 20. The 4 students groups will give a class presentation of their recommendation during the 13th week of the semester.

4) Six articles Literature Review:

20% of your final grade

Each student should select two of the topics which we will study during the semester and review articles pertaining to the topics. The student has to get my prior approval for the 6 articles he or she intends to review.

During the coming 2 weeks, each student should submit electronically to me, emile.sahliyeh@unt.edu, and 10 article titles including the title of the article, author, journal, date of publication, and the length of the articles. The students should select articles that are published after 2014. I will select 6 appropriate articles for the student to review. Each article should be drawn from academic scholarly journals and should be at least 10 to 15 pages in length.

Each article summary should be between 1000 to 1200 words.

You should submit the articles summaries electronically to me, emile.sahliyeh@unt.edu
The first 2 article reviews are due on February 15;
The second 2 articles reviews are due on March 1;
The last 2 article reviews are due on March 20.

5) Mid Term Exam:
   March 8; 30% of your final grade

6) Final Exam:
   May 9, at 1:30 in the same class room; 30% of the final grade.
   Both the midterm and the final exam will be based upon readings and class lectures.
