• Contact information: sungji.hong@unt.edu
• Office hours: Mondays, 9-10am; Wednesday 9-10am
• Graduate Fellows:
  Jake Thiede (JacobThiede@my.unt.edu)

• CEMI Office: MU2001

Required Materials:
• A computer and access to Canvas
• Library reserves—various texts, scores and recordings on the fourth floor of the music library
• Selected scores, recordings, articles, chapters and reviews provided

Listening, Score Study and Readings:
You will be required to listen to and study an extensive list of pieces covering a wide range of contemporary repertoire and complete readings as assigned by the instructor.

Projects:
Please bring a PDF projectable score or multiple hard copies of the score as well as a recording or MIDI mockup of your project to share with your colleagues. All work is due on the date indicated in the course schedule. It must be turned in, printed out (not in digital form or handwritten) on or before its due date. Turning in homework late will lower the grade you earn on assignments and projects.

Final Presentation of Pieces and Recording Session:
You are required to complete at least one major compositional project in consultation with your private lesson instructor. Please refer to the portfolio requirements for undergraduate composition students when deciding what type of piece to compose for the semester to try to complete at least one portfolio requirement. You will have this piece read and recorded in the MEIT at the end of the semester. For this, you are required to secure musicians and a conductor (if necessary) for the recording session, create and distribute professional-looking parts and scores to the musicians/conductor and design a rehearsal schedule and book rehearsal spaces. You will also present your piece to the class in the final weeks of the semester. Please bring a PDF projectable score or multiple hard copies of the score as well as a recording or MIDI mockup of your project to share with your colleagues.

Punctuality and Professionalism:
• All assignments, projects, presentations and written work are due on the dates specified below. If an assignment is late it will earn a lower grade (a 10% reduction for each class period it is late).
• All commentary and criticism of your classmates’ work must be specific, constructive and respectful.

Evaluation and Grading:
Final grades will be based upon composition projects, log, and attendance/class participation (which include concert attendance) and distributed as follows:
• Attendance/participation/log 20%
• Composition projects 30%
• Presentation of Semester Piece (including Process Paper) 20%
• Final Recording Session (Preparation and Professionalism) 30%

Grading Scale:
A: 90-100
B: 80-89
C 70-79
D: 60-69
F: 0-59

Attendance & Punctuality
You are expected to attend both seminar and lectures weekly, and notify your instructors well in advance if this is not possible. Unexplained or unexcused absences will be factored into the evaluation of your Seminar Attendance and Participation, which is 20% of your grade.

Students are allowed two (2) absences, period. There are no excused absences except for a death in the family or a UNT Official Activity. On the third absence, your overall grade will be lowered by 5%; for example, a 90% becomes an 85%. On the fourth absence, you will earn a failing grade for the course.
Two (2) tardies equal one absence. You will earn a tardy if you are either enter late or leave early. If you come in late, we have already marked you absent. It is your responsibility to make sure there is a tardy mark after your name. You must inform the professor after class, and watch them mark the attendance book. If you do not, you will be considered absent.

If you are absent, you must get the notes and handouts for that class from a fellow student. Missing an evaluation day will result in a grade of “0” plus an absence for that day.

Course Materials:
Readings, scores and recordings will be available online. There will be no textbook for this seminar.

Course Activities:
Composition Project and Final Jury—Each student will compose a new work, significant in scope yet practical to complete by the end of the term. During finals week, the entire composition faculty will hold a jury in which students will present their completed projects and respond to faculty inquiries regarding the aesthetic and technical direction of the work.

Two Assignments—Compose a short piece (2 minutes) that relates to the weekly topic, repertoire and readings assigned. Be prepared to discuss what technical and musical aspects of the piece are consistent with, or inconsistent with, the readings and repertoire from that week.

Process Papers—Each student will write Process Papers (400 words: 2 Assignments/700 words: final composition) about the final composition and its context within the repertoire.

Readings and Listening Assignments—For each seminar session students will complete assigned readings and listening/score analysis prior to the date listed on the schedule below. Since the schedule only allows for limited composition lessons per student in the semester, students are strongly encouraged to be in regular dialogue with each other regarding compositional projects throughout the semester.

Composition Lessons and Masterclasses—Each week, half the students will have lessons with the instructor (in MU1003), and half will attend a masterclass (in MU2009) with another of the composition faculty (see schedule below), in order to maximize opportunities to get varied feedback and become acquainted with all the faculty. Masterclass groups will be assigned on the first day of class.
Academic Integrity:
Students caught cheating or plagiarizing will receive a "0" for that particular assignment or exam [or specify alternative sanction, such as course failure]. Additionally, the incident will be reported to the Dean of Students (Office of Academic Integrity), who may impose further penalty. According to the UNT catalog, the term "cheating" includes, but is not limited to: a. use of any unauthorized assistance in taking quizzes, tests, or examinations; b. dependence upon the aid of sources beyond those authorized by the instructor in writing papers, preparing reports, solving problems, or carrying out other assignments; c. the acquisition, without permission, of tests or other academic material belonging to a faculty or staff member of the university; d. dual submission of a paper or project, or resubmission of a paper or project to a different class without express permission from the instructor(s); or e. any other act designed to give a student an unfair advantage. The term "plagiarism" includes, but is not limited to: a. the knowing or negligent use by paraphrase or direct quotation of the published or unpublished work of another person without full and clear acknowledgment; and b. the knowing or negligent unacknowledged use of materials prepared by another person without full and clear acknowledgment. If a disability is verified, the ODA will provide you with an accommodation letter to be delivered to faculty to begin a private discussion regarding your specific needs in a course. You may request accommodations as early as possible in the semester to avoid any delay in implementation. Note that students must obtain a new letter of accommodation for every semester and must meet with each faculty member prior to implementation in each class. For additional information see the Office of Disability Access.

Student Behavior:
Student behavior that interferes with an instructor's ability to conduct a class or other students' opportunity to learn is unacceptable and disruptive and will not be tolerated in any instructional forum at UNT. Students engaging in unacceptable behavior will be directed to leave the classroom and the instructor may refer the student to the Dean of Students to consider whether the student's conduct violated the Code of Student Conduct. The university's expectations for student conduct apply to all instructional forums, including university and electronic classroom, labs, discussion groups, field trips, etc.
