

PROGRAM LEADER INTRODUCTION

Jonathan Hill

After holding leadership positions for ten years at Coca-Cola and Red Bull, Jonathan founded Catalyst PLD in 2005 to continue his commitment to making a difference for companies and the individuals within them. Trained at the Coaches Training Institute in London, UK, he is an Associate Certified Coach with the International Coach Federation.

Jonathan's experience as a coach and facilitator is highly extensive. He has worked with some of the UK's most recognized organizations, across both the private and public sectors, including Sainsbury's Supermarkets, Tesco, CBRE, Yahoo!, SAP and Microsoft. He draws on business, psychological and behavioural science principles to help companies become more engaging and inspirational places in which to work, as well as creating real "light bulb" moments of learning for all employees. His specialities include executive and personal coaching, EI development, coaching training for managers and leading multimodular leadership development programs.

In his spare time, Jonathan is a keen cyclist and a dad, and volunteers as a governor at his local primary school.

