UNITY

Guest Presenters

Krista Bontrager & Monique Duson

Monique Duson has a background in Social Service and Children's Ministry and has worked with a diverse array of under-served communities. She worked as a Missionary to South Africa for over 4 years, serving children and teachers impacted by drugs, violence, and trauma. Monique has spent 2 decades advocating for Critical Race Theory (CRT), but through hours of contemplation on the contradictions of CRT with the historical Christian Worldview, she is now convinced that Critical Race Theory is not the best way to achieve Biblical unity and speaks out against Critical Race Theory within Evangelicalism and promotes a third way to walk out true racial healing and Biblical unity.

EDUCATION

M.A. – Theology (in process), Talbot School of Theology

B.A. – Biola University

Krista Bontrager is a fourth generation minister. She is a Bible scholar, lay minister, author, teacher, former university professor and homeschool mom. Krista has a unique ability to communicate the truth of Scripture in an accessible and practical way.

Krista's ability to connect theology with real life is borne out of personal experience. During her seminary years, she began to see the great transformational power theology could have on a person's spiritual growth. Her enthusiasm and academic excellence led to her being hired to teach biblical studies at Biola University. Krista enjoys exploring how theology applies to the real life situations that Christians face today. Krista believes life is full of challenges, but has learned to see these as opportunities to grow and walk with the Lord in new and profound ways.
