

Credit: Prof. H. Kazerooni, University of California, Berkeley.

The user fitted with this exoskeleton is able to carry a 35-kg load over long stretches of uneven terrain. Rescuers could find it helpful for transporting food or medical supplies.