#Socktober Sock Match Contest

Fall Break's Breakout Internet Star

North Madison custodian Ken Daum hopped onto the school's Facebook page to take over for Principal McGaha's weekly updates during Fall Break. He shared some of the exciting things custodians worked on over break, such as replacing burnt out lightbulbs and power washing bathrooms. Thank you to Mr. Daum and all of the support staff members who used Fall Break to keep our schools in great shape!

Swimmers Gain Momentum

Mooresville's new swim Coach Kevin Trammell sees potential all around him in the MHS natatorium.

"We've got a great facility and we've got great potential," Trammell says of his team which is heavy with freshmen and sophomores. He also praises the great work diving coach Corey Ervin has done. "We've got one of the best diving programs around and diving wins swim meets."

Those foundations are exactly what Trammell needs. "My goal is to build a college preparatory high-performance team," said Trammell, "and we are already on our way."

Trammell has already put in time far beyond the regular swim season as a group of Mooresville's swimmers joined him to compete at the high school club level earlier in the year. The Pioneer swimmers are translating that positive experience back into the Mooresville pool. The team's strength and technique are improving steadily as they begin two-a-day practices in preparation for the school season.

"They're working hard and they're tired after practices," says Trammell, "but they see that they're getting stronger and their times are getting shorter every week."

In addition to the hard work the team puts in, Trammell says they're realizing the importance of good nutrition and getting their techniques exactly right. He believes as the swimmers continue their fine tuning, new

An Elite Honor

MHS wrestling coach Dan Mikesell was one of 40 coaches selected from across the U.S. to take part in the Silver Coaches College at the Olympic training center in Colorado Springs. The three-day intensive clinic included on the mat instruction as well as classroom work.

PHOTO: Mikesell (right) met several world-class wrestlers and coaches, including Egyptian Greco-Roman wrestler Mohamed Addelfatah, who is the 2006 world champion, a three-time World Medalist, and a three-time Olympian.

“During the course I picked up several ideas to help Mooresville wrestling at all levels,” said Mikesell. “Not just technique, but program ideas, sports psychology, training schedules, nutrition classes, program building, skill development curriculum, and different styles of coaching.”

The training puts Mikesell on his way to earning his silver coaches credential. This credential will allow him to be one of only a handful of Indiana coaches eligible to enter the National team coaches pool and possibly coach international competition.

Swim Program Starting Strong

school records will start showing up on the natatorium walls. Each improvement is a small victory, and as Trammell notes, "Success builds success."

Trammell already has plans in the works for this team to continue growing their skills to the college level. He is working with an NCAA Division 2 university to get the Pioneers into collegiate-level training next summer. "As a college preparatory program, we're stressing NCAA level skill sets," said Trammell. "These swimmers are being exposed to the exact same techniques that they will need when they get to the competitive college level."

For now, the team is diving in with enthusiasm and a competitive spirit fueled by their coach's enthusiasm. Trammell says changes will be evident to fans and the competition when the team begins their competitive season.

"Everyone should be on the lookout when the first meet hits. Their starts are going to be ballistic, their walls are going to be the strongest they've ever done, and they're going to look amazing."
