

Mooresville Athletic Department
Building Champions of Character

Mooresville High School Athletic Department Launches Champions of Character Program

For Immediate Release: 8/6/12

Mooresville, IN – The Mooresville High School Athletic Department is launching a new Champions of Character program school wide that is designed to encourage character education through school and athletic experiences at all levels.

The Champions of Character program specific inspires character qualities being implemented through life experiences gained from the educational & athletic experience at Mooresville. The program will allow both Mooresville coaches and high school students the opportunity to go into the elementary schools and middle school to encourage and educate younger students through class discussion the importance of character.

“This exciting Champions of Character program aligns with our mission for our Mooresville Schools,” said Brad Lindsay, Mooresville Consolidated Schools Superintendent. “This will provide us the challenge and opportunity to live out our Mooresville Schools core values of character, unity, and servant leadership to benefit every student and stakeholder of our school community. We Are Mooresville and We Are a Community of Champions!”

The Champions of Character program will recognize one male & female student from each elementary school, the middle school and high school once a month. The students will be chosen for demonstrating the following three main core values through the Mooresville Champions of Character program: Character, Unity and Servant Leadership. As these core values are demonstrated throughout the year the program will recognize those students who are making a positive difference in our schools.

“I support and applauded the Champions of Character program,” said Chuck Muston, Principal Mooresville High School. “I believe this program can have a positive impact in our schools and throughout our community.”

The Mooresville High School Athletic Department Champions of Character program will utilize the MHS Student Athletic Council to promote, enhance and share the program with younger students. The Mooresville Champions of Character program will require online education courses for each coach at the high school level and there will be monthly programming for the students serving on the MHS Athletic Council.

“The desire is that this program will continue to build a strong foundation for success for every student in the Mooresville School system,” said Chad Briscoe, Director of Athletics at Mooresville. “We must be intentional about teaching character through the athletic experience. We desire that our students serve others and build unity through educational and athletic experiences at Mooresville.”

Mooresville High School is a full IHSAA member and a part of the Mid-State Conference.