Real Life Customer Questions & Answers

Question: My child had an accident on her toddler pillow. It soaked through the pillow, and into the wool pearls. How do we clean it?

Please remove the Damask cover and wash it in cold water and hand to dry. For the inner pillow, the wool cannot be washed or the pillow will become permanently damaged. You can spot clean the surface with 1/3 vinegar and 2/3 water to remove any bacteria.

Once you have spot cleaned the surface, you can lay the inner pillow flat to dry. Indoors only. Once fully dried, take it outside and expose to UV rays or direct sunlight. This will help replenish the fibers and naturally "bleach" any remaining stains.

Note: Do NOT bring it outside before it is 100% dry, otherwise the wool pearls will clump together.

The inner wool pillow itself is naturally antimicrobial. Any stains or accidents will not affect the pillow. By spot cleaning the surface, it is only the aesthetic that we are concerned about.

Question: My daughter sweats a lot during nap time. If this pillow can't be washed, will it get ruined?

The case can be washed, and it's very thick so I doubt your daughter could sweat through to the pillow. My son sweats a lot too, but he sweats less with this pillow than some others because it's more breathable.

Question: Can you tell me if the sheep/wool underwent "flea dipping" or the use of chemicals to treat moths, etc.?

No treatment or chemicals are used in the wool or on the sheep. Just a hot water bath and natural soap to clean off dirt.

The firmness and feel of each of our adult pillows are fully adjustable to make any of our pillows perfect for you: Simply open the nylon zipper and remove or add filling as needed. The fillings can be messy - we suggest to do it over a kitchen sink with drain plug or outside.

Mother Sheep Organics pillows are not only the most comfortable pillows available, they are also free of any harsh chemicals. You can rest assured that you and your family are not breathing in any harmful off-gassing or synthetic fumes while you sleep!
