Musicademy launches new online worship training subscription service

Musicademy has launched a new online worship training subscription website <https://www.musicademy.com/training/> containing over 1,200 training video lessons for worship musicians. Subscribers enjoy unlimited access to all Musicademy's 50+ courses which represent 3 to 4 years training on every instrument.

The service includes some 10,000 minutes of content for guitar, bass, drums keyboards, vocals, playing by ear, music theory, understanding chords, improvisation skills for orchestral instruments and even sound tech and PA training courses with lessons at Beginner, Intermediate and Advanced levels.

Bought individually the lessons represent some $2,000 of courses, however subscription access is priced at from just $15 a month with additional savings for worship teams.

Musicademy Director Andy Chamberlain says:

"Apart from the sheer quantity of material that we've built up over 12 years of creating training courses built around worship music, our focus has always been on developing robust curriculum which increases musicianship as a whole and helps players make their own unique expression rather than a focus on just teaching the 'cut and paste' parts to songs."

Worship leader Tim Hughes says:

"Any musicians should constantly be aiming to improve and grow in their gifting. Here is a wonderful resource that will equip and encourage many in the pursuit of excellence."

An explanatory video about the subscription site is available on YouTube

Editors Notes

Musicademy was established as a music college in 2003 by musician and guitar tutor Andy Chamberlain, and business partner Marie Page. It is now well known for its internationally acclaimed training teaching worship focused guitar, vocals, keyboard, bass, drums, orchestral and even sound tech training for church based musicians at beginner to advanced levels.

Moving from live lessons to DVDs, the new online subscription service is the latest in a transition to embracing digital technologies enabling Musicademy to train people from all over the world.
