Back Door Music Sponsor

Below is a list of a affiliate networks with music related products that you can earn money with.

Before we start, I just wanted to mention one thing quick.

I have the major players listed at the top and some smaller ones list below.

There are way more affiliate programs out there than I could possibly list in this document.

Here are 3 more ways you can find more affiliate programs:

1) Check The Product/Service Website

If you are ever on a site and are wondering if they have an affiliate program do one of the following.

Scroll down to the bottom look for link in the menu titled “Affiliate Program”, “Partner Program” or some variation of those.

2) Do a Google search

“[website name] + affiliate program.

3) Just ask

And if all else fails, just contact the site and ask.

Once you do these things a few times, it will become second nature for you to look for affiliate programs to promote.

And now, on to the list...

The List

Look over the list, see if any products catch your eye and just to sign up for one or two.

Amazon

The biggest of them all.

Products:

Everything under the sun.

ShareASales

They have a ton of affiliate music related programs available.

Products:

Guitar lesson DVD's from Legacy Learning Systems, Music memorabilia, Music T-shirts, Speakers from Seismec Audio, Sheet music and there is a lot more.

Apple iTunes

This is good one if you want to get back a little of the 30% iTunes is taking out of your sales. Just use an affiliate link anywhere you link to your music.

Products:

Your music, apps, iMacs, iPhones, etc.

LinkShare

Here are a few of the products and services you can promote through them.

Products:

New York Times, Sam Ash Music, CD Universe, Match.com, Karaoke Channel, MusicNotes.com (Sheet Music), Fiverr

Bonus Tip:

LinkShare has Fiverr as an affiliate. As of this writing Fiverr offers $14 for new signups. You could offer your own service on Fiverr like: sound editing, lessons, singing Happy Birthday for people, lyrics videos, etc. Then direct them to your gig through your affiliate link. You could get $14 plus another $4 if they buy your gig.

Affiliate

Affiliate, formerly Commission Junction, is one of the top brokers online and they have a TON of programs.

Products:

Musicians Friend, Guitar Center, Emusic, Discount Mags, TurboTax, some big event ticket brokers and a ton of others

Bonus Tip:

Buyer beware. I've had some decent luck with them in the past. But I've also got hosed out of some money. If you don't make sales on a regular basis and reach a certain threshold of sales, they will just shut down your account. And not send you the cash your owed (happened to me twice) . If you think you can pump out sales on a regular basis, go for it. If not, maybe skip them until you can.

Clickbank

Their entire inventory is information products. Also, they pay large commissions. You can earn 50% - 75% on $300 courses. If you can make some of these work, you could make some bank.

Products:

Piano lessons, guitar lessons, voice lessons, music production courses, diet and exercise programs, relationship how tos, etc

SheetMusicPlus

Could be another double dipping opportunity. Sell your sheet music and then use the affiliate link to direct fans back there.

Products:

Sheet music

GuitarTricks

This is pretty cool and can make you some decent money. They offer $25 commissions for trial membership sign ups all the way up to $70 when someone purchases their Blues Guitar Course.

Products:

Guitar lessons and courses

Conclusion

That should be enough to get you rolling. Look through a few of the programs to see what is out there and start offering to your fans.

Remember, it all comes back to how good you are at building an audience.

It is simple...

Bigger audience = more sales = more money in your pocket

Moral of the story... always be building your audience!

Discover how to build your audience faster while selling more music at the same time.
