WELCOME!

Hey thanks for buying this resource guide, I know you're gonna really enjoy referencing it throughout the year. Yup, this guide is gonna be your homey. Go where you go, be where you be, all of that.

Because its just that good...

Seriously though, this is only a resource guide. This is not for training purposes, I'm not claiming to be any kind of video marketing guru, so use this guide only for reference.

And because this is specific to video marketing, everything included here is specific only to video marketing. You're not going to find places to research keywords, how to get accepted to cpa networks or how to sell plr on fiverr.

In fact, you're really not getting any "how to" stuff in here at all really. I'm not gonna tell you how to do a damn thing. You're all grown up and can think for yourself, right?

All you're getting here is a collection of the most awesomest video marketing resources for 2015.

That's it, nothing more, nothing less.

All these links are intended to do is be a jumping point for whatever you got going on. Think of this as like a "best of video marketing" wiki.

Of course, being that I'm an affiliate marketer at heart, there are a bunch of affiliate links in here too....

That just means that if you click a link in this guide and end up purchasing something from one of my recommendations I'll most likely get a commission from that. (And I want to say a big thank YOU!)

vidfunnels.com

But I included either the product name or the website name for you so even if you don't want to go through my affiliate link (ok....), then just type the website name into your browser, ok?

But seriously, it doesn't cost you anything extra and every single thing mentioned in here is something that I either use myself personally or that has come highly recommended from trusted sources. Plus the majority of them are free anyway, and I'm definitely NOT recommending you buy every single thing in this guide.

Get only what you need and what you know will save you time, money or a headache, cool?

All that being said, I really do hope you enjoy everything you've got here!

[DO NOT SKIP THIS SECTION]

The best way to get the most out of this resource guide is to go through one section at a time, only clicking on links that interest you or meet your needs.

Do NOT just go through this and click on every single link!

Why do you think you suffer from information overload after all??

Then once you've got the tools you need, put your own action plan in place (take a look at some of the recommended training courses at the end of the guide or use a training course you've already purchased and feel good about.)

But just stick to one thing, ok?

Don't go off making videos about dog collars one day, creating squeeze pages for SEO ebooks the next day and then trying to sell some diabetes cure the next day...that strategy will not work no matter how many fancy pieces of software you have.

Just saying.

Stick with one thing and really apply yourself to it.

One of the many great things about video marketing is that you can apply it on top of almost any other marketing niche.

You do affiliate marketing? Start affiliate marketing with videos.

Oh, you do SEO? Start ranking better and easier with videos.

Oh, wait – you said you're into graphics? Are you kidding me? You're into graphics and you're just getting into video now? Shame on you....

Seriously though, use this guide and your own discretion and you can find clever ways to incorporate video into what you're already doing or just get a real good jumpstart on everything.

On the next page you'll find the outline for the entire pdf. So let's get started!

CREATE VIDEOS

The basic hardware and software you'll need to tap into video marketing

Actually, you probably already have most of the hardware you need to get started but I'll run through the basics here with you real quick.

Before I do though, here's a little tip if you're like me and hate having to wait for amazon to deliver (not that it really takes that long), and don't wanna spend the ridiculous prices most big box stores seem to have – if you just ask, most big box stores in your area will price match with amazon (walmart was even getting scammed with this method recently).

A lot of places (like the OfficeMax near me) will need to see that the item they're price matching is “fulfilled by Amazon” and not a 3rd party.

Obviously I'm not saying go out there and scam the system, just save yourself the shipping time of getting any electronics (and other items too) at a good price.

So here's the essential hardware you'll need to get started creating videos yourself.

Video Hardware – this hardware is only needed if you're planning on getting “behind the camera”. You can start easily by doing screencast videos and skip to the next section Audio Hardware.

1. Use your phone – all smartphones now a days are more than capable of putting out decent if not down right professional videos.
2. Use your webcam – if you've got a laptop, chances are you've got a webcam. Put it to use without spending extra money on more stuff.
3. Use your camera – I'm sure you've got a digital camera lying around somewhere. Go check it out before buying something new. If you're looking at something that can at least record in 720HD you've got enough to get started.

Recommended Cameras – If you're still planning on getting behind the camera and creating videos, then here's some recommended cameras for the value minded videographer. Be sure to check out Amazon's trade in program or the one by Gazelle if you're looking to upgrade.

For me personally, I've always used (and still do), Canon equipment. So although there's great options by other brands like Nikon, Samsung, Sony, etc, to keep this resource guide short and sweet, here's 3 of my top recommendations depending on your budget.

1. "On a budget" - Canon PowerShot Elph 340 HS
2. "Best Bang for the Buck" - Canon EOS Rebel T5
3. "For the PRO" - Canon EOS 70D Digital SLR

Audio Hardware – more important than most people realize, audio can make or break a video so get it right the first time. Here's some hardware to get the job done.

1. Use your phone – if you're using a halfway decent smartphone, then you've got a mic built in there that can probably do the job just fine without spending extra money.
2. Don't use your pc mic – I've found most pc mics are pure crap. Of course I haven't used all of them, and you might have something good to use right there....but probably not. I'd avoid this route.

Recommended Mics – you can actually pick up a decent mic for around $10-$20 (I once bought a decent usb headset and mic at OfficeMax using the price match trick I told you about and got them to give it to me for $16 when it was listed at $45! It never hurts to ask...)

Just make sure you're getting a usb mic and not one of the ones that plugs into your audio jack, ok?

1. "On a budget" - the headset and mic I got for $16 is the Microsoft LifeChat LX-3000 (last I checked its about $20), it works great for screencasts, skype calls, etc. But there's tons of other great options to choose from in the $10-$20 price range if you do some searching.
2. "Best Bang for the Buck" - the infamous Blue Yeti
3. "Pro DSLR Mic" - Rode Shotgun Microphone

Free Video Software (I'm assuming you already know about and/or have either Microsoft Live Movie Maker and iMovie) -

1. ezvid.com – full featured video editor with speed control, screen drawing, voice synthesis, screen recorder, photo slideshow maker and many other cool features.fr
2. Screencast-o-matic.com – super easy and super simple, this tool is great for quick screen recordings. The free version lets you upload videos up to 15 minutes, record your screen and webcam, publish direct to youtube or to mp4, avi, flv and their super cheap pro version adds a whole bunch of other tools.
3. Camstudio.org – records all screen and audio activity to create avi files (that it can also turn into swf). Basically an open source version of the much more expensive pro tool camtasia, but free.
4. Powtoon.com – create animated videos and presentations with their fun templates. To remove the watermark, you can upgrade by paying per exported video or with a subscription.
5. Flixpress – Automated templates you can use to create broadcast quality video in minutes (great with bumper videos, segment intros and more). They also offer credits for more advanced video creating features and even custom video creating services.

Upgraded Video Software -

1. Camtasia – free trial but then $300, this one ain't cheap. Just hold onto this link until you're ready for it, or play around with the free trial in the meantime.
2. Explaindio – weird name, but awesome and easy to use tool. Create all kinds of videos, with easy to edit templates and a massive set of features.
3. Easy Sketch Pro 2 – runner up spot because even though I'd buy explaindio if I could only choose 1 tool.
4. Video Script – one of those commonly overlooked parts of video marketing, this software creates video scripts in minutes and it can be used on pc or mac.

Audio Software -

1. audacity \(free\) – multi track audio editor and recorder so you can optimize, cut, copy, splice and mix audio recordings. Can be a little intimidating at first with all the features.
2. Power Sound Editor \(free\) – great audio editing software if you're a visual person. Easy to navigate and upload finished projects.
3. Smart voice recorder \(free android app\) – always be able to record, no matter where you go.
4. Voice record pro \(free iphone/ipad app\) – again, record wherever you are in high quality.

Uploading Your Videos -

1. Youtube obviously. All free, with millions (billions?) of users and owned by mother google. Also, using google hangouts has shown to be one of the best ways to rank and stay ranked. Youtube videos are not recommended for private, higher end content you want locked down.
2. Daily motion – clean video platform provides HD video fast and easily online. Ranks well too!
3. Metacafe – limited to ten minute uploads but another resource to upload and share your new videos.
4. Vimeo – get 500 mb/wk free or upgrade to one of their better plans. Beautiful looking video player with no ads and sharing.
5. Wistia – definitely the most professional video hosting, analytics and marketing tools. You get to host up to 50 videos (doesn't even matter how long) and lock them down better than any other player.
6. Easy Video Suite – released almost 2 years ago but still going strong and being used daily for high ticket launches, this one isn't cheap at $300-$400 but keep that link in your pocket until you need it later.

Storing Your Videos -

1. google drive - starts you with 15 GB of free Google storage, so you can keep pictures, stories, designs, drawings, recordings, videos – anything.
2. Dropbox – only 2gb of space to start out but you can share a link (like I am right now!) or do other tasks to get more space easily.
3. Copy.com – really nice, clean and easy to use interface the really nice thing here is that you can upload any size file (and share usage). You get 15gb to start.
4. amazon s3 – if you want quality online cloud storage, there really isn't a better option than amazon s3. For mere pennies you can have people watching and downloading your videos all the time. Simple, no frills user interface and easy sign up with your amazon account.

RANK VIDEOS

Underground ranking strategies gathered from the top minds in the industry and brought to you in one condensed version.

***To skip almost this entire section, you can go over and get Tube Live Commando by Anthony Hayes. He's also got some fantastic free video ranking tools available at his personal website explaining how to rank videos way better than I ever could....

I probably don't need to mention the very basics about how you should share your videos on the "big 3" (fb, g+ and twitter), but if you need help with that stuff I'm sure you can find a youtube video that explains it ;)

What you will find here is a list of links to follow step by step to rank your videos. Obviously results may vary depending on the sun, moon and blah, blah, blah you know all that, right?

I'm not saying you're going to get #1 rankings, but I am saying that most ranking courses you purchase will show you some (probably not all) of the links below and using them in the same order as listed below for a more "organic" feel...

And finally, just to clarify – I'm no video seo ranking guru ninja. But I've bought enough courses to see that most of them teach the same core strategy.

So you're getting the combined power of multiple Video SEO Ranking courses all wrapped up into a few pages of links!

Before you do anything, make sure you've done your on-page SEO (click here for the free on-page SEO cheat sheet). Then once that's done, continue on with the steps below:

RSS Submit - (click here for the template to convert your video to rss) and then submit that feed to the sites below. Just use the title of your video as the description and use the link to the video as the website url. (both free)

1. <http://www.bulkping.com/free-rss-submit-online/index.php>
2. <http://tools.950buy.com/rss-submit/>

Index and Ping - just enter your link and a few details and let these sites work their magic. Recommended to wait 12-24 hrs after you've submitted to rss.

1. indexkings.com (free)
2. pingler.com (free with paid upgrade available)
3. pingomatic.com (free)

Web 2.0 Backlinks – embeds are best, so head over to vimeo, daily motion and the following web 2.0 sites to embed your video. Obviously, the more time you spend on these the better. Adding an original article, linking high pr sites, etc will only boost rankings but this isn't an seo course... Recommended to wait 24 hrs after index and ping.

1. Tumblr.com
2. blogger.com
3. wordpress.com

Social linking – Now start dropping the links to your new videos and/or one of your web 2.0 blog posts onto these sites.

1. reddit.com
2. digg.com
3. delicious.com

Social Bookmarks and Shares – get the social proof you need to show the big g who deserves to be ranked. Don't overdo anything here and don't be spammy. Recommended to wait 24 hours after backlinks.

1. socialadr.com (free or paid) – fully automated social marketing service with real time reporting, this can put ranking your videos on overdrive.
2. addmefast.com (free and/or paid) – there are entire WSOs on this site....but it's pretty easy to get the hang of and just a little time each day (or a few bucks) can go a long way to rank videos.
3. Socialclerk.net (free and/or paid) – another site like addmefast
4. socialmonkee.com ($7) – cheap solutions to get social bookmarks for your videos easy.
5. ifttt.com (free) – getting to know this site can put almost everything you do on autopilot.
6. seoclerks.com – think if fiverr wasn't $5 and it was just about SEO and you've got seoclerks.com. If you're looking for value, there's tons here but just keep both eyes open like you would on fiverr.

VIDEO WEBSITES

Both of these tools you can also use in addition to a site and can use them directly on your site too. Whichever way you choose!

1. Leadpages \(monthly fee\) – host with them or install the plugin and host on your site, whichever you choose. Create beautiful video lead capture pages quickly and easily.
2. ClickFunnels \(monthly fee\) – like an upgrade to LeadPages, where ClickFunnels stands above the rest is the easy creation of entire video sales funnels (other tools like LeadPages make you manually tie all the pages together to build your funnel).
