Where Are They Now?

Josh Carter is a 2001 graduate of Waynesboro Senior High School and was a four-year member of the high school basketball program. Josh was a point guard who was known for his excellent free-throw shooting skills. After high school, he went to the University of Kentucky, where he earned a degree in Chemistry and attended medical school. Josh also participated in intramural basketball throughout his years at Kentucky and cheered hard for the Wildcats. After medical school, he moved to Vermont for his residency to be trained in Orthopedic Surgery. He still plays basketball whenever he can find time in his busy schedule and helps to treat some of the University of Vermont and high school basketball athletes who get hurt. Outside of work and the basketball court, Josh is married to his wife Jessica and has a 5 month old daughter named Raelyn. He is also sad to announce that he is pretty sure his dunking days are now behind him.
