Rudy's Review

Here we are at the end of May and fixing to jump right into summer. We have camps, vacations and Father's day. I remember being awakened to the sounds of my kids making me breakfast and giving me gifts. As a dad I loved being there for my boys, playing ball, helping with homework, just doing father-son things. Being a father is an awesome responsibility, it also can sometimes be a thankless job.

A five year old boy had a very precocious interest in motorcycles. Whenever he saw one, he would let out a howl of joy, accompanied by animated remarks like, "Look at that! Look at that! I'm going to get a motorcycle someday." His father did not like motorcycles and always had the same response to his son's enthusiastic comments, "Not as long as I'm alive, you won't." One day, while the boy was talking to his friend, a brand new motorcycle zoomed by. He excitedly pointed it out to his friend and said with great excitement, "Look at that! I'm getting one of those—as soon as my dad dies."

With our children, the things of the world sometimes supersede our desires and wishes for them. We know what's best but our children sometimes cannot see it for the shiny, fabulous things the world offers. Our job is to teach our children well. Teach them about the goodness of the Lord.

Pro 22:6 Train up a child in the way he should go, And when he is old he will not depart from it.

These are good words to live by. Will our children stray? Maybe, but that foundation will be there for them to fall back on. What are we teaching our children?

I heard a story about a 1st grade teacher who asked a young man if he knew his numbers. The little boy proudly said yes and that his dad had helped him. So the teacher wanted to see how good a job ole dad did. She asked the boy, "What number comes after 2?" "3" he answered. "What comes after 5?" she asked. "6". "What comes after 8?" He proudly said "9". The teacher was pleased with him and replied, "very good." It looks like your father did a great job so tell me, what comes after 10? The boy had a huge smile as he replied "a jack".

(sorry about this card playing illustration all you non-card playing Baptist. Hope you forgive me)

Our children learn from us each and every day of our lives. We do our best to teach them, train them in the ways of God and not necessarily train them in the world ways.

*Eph 6:4 says Fathers do not provoke your children to wrath, but bring them up in the training and admonition of the Lord.

Last month I kind of hit on moms and parenting our kids. Dads it is so very important that you be the man, the leader, the godly influence in your home. We can have godly moms in our homes and that is great, but there is something about having a godly man that solidifies a home. Dad don't be afraid to discipline your children (I said discipline not beat).

I saw this comment about dads in a newsletter and I wanted to share it with you:

At 4: we think My Daddy can do anything

At 8: Dad doesn't know, go ask Mom.

At 12: Oh, well, naturally Dad just doesn't understand

At 14: Father? Really, he is hopelessly old-fashion

At 21: Oh, that man is so out of date, out of touch with life, what do you expect.

At 25: He comes up with a good idea now and then.

At 30: Must find out what Dad thinks about it.

At 35: A little patience—let's get Dad's input first

At 50: What would Dad have thought about that?

At 60: I wish I could talk it over with Dad once more.

If your dad is still alive – go tell him what he means to you. If he has gone on, think about what he meant to you and how he shaped your life.

Happy Father's day
