“Do not neglect to do good and to share what you have, for such sacrifices are pleasing to God.” Hebrews 13:16

The Elfinwild Home Meals Ministry continues to thrive as an independent ministry of Elfinwild Presbyterian Church. The Home Meals Ministry has strong leadership under Kitchen Manager, Dick Friedline, and Head Cook, Pam Dudgeon. They, along with an active group of volunteers, ensure that meals are prepared and delivered each weekday.

Currently, the Home Meals Ministry serves over 70 clients each day with nutritious, well-balanced meals.

There is no financial need or other type of eligibility rule required for an individual to receive meals through the kitchen. Some clients receive meals for a short period of time while recovering from an illness or injury, whereas others receive meals on an ongoing basis. At a low cost, clients receive one hot meal and one cold bagged meal per day. Special birthday items are delivered to the clients with their meals. The volunteers are the only outside contact some clients have on a daily basis. Through these meals, clients not only receive proper nutrition, but can also interact with the delivery volunteer.

The Home Meals Ministry is self-sustaining with income from the clients as well as donations from the Elfinwild congregation, members of the community, and many community service groups. These donations are used for the day-to-day operating expenses for food purchases, salaries, and equipment repair.
