October 31 is Halloween, or, All Hallow's Eve. It is the day before the Christian holiday of All Saints' Day. This date has special significance for Lutherans. Many people go to church on Christmas Day. Well, in the year 1517, many people went to church on All Saints' Day (November 1). Martin Luther was a monk who desperately wanted to discuss what was happening in the Christian church, so he put up a "poster" with 95 thesis (or sentences) on it so people could talk about them. This date is considered the birthday of the Lutheran church! 2017 is the 500th anniversary of this event.
