Pastor
Jan Yandell

Dear Friends and Friends I have not yet met,

Thank you to Nick for sharing the message for today. I am confident you will be hearing the word of God in a wonderful way. This is Human Relations Day in the United Methodist Church, and it is Martin Luther King weekend in the United States. Both are illustrations of the way the church and the country want to follow the example of a man, who closely followed the example of Christ.

The scripture today tells us that "nothing can separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus." And the power of that scripture today is that nothing means nothing! Not race, or creed, or gender or sexual identity, or place of origin, or legal status, or financial security, or anything else can separate us from that love. And if God can love all of us, no matter what, than when Jesus tells the world to "Love God and love your neighbor" than nothing should separate us from the love of each other!

Martin Luther King Jr. lived his life striving to make God's love a reality for all. It was not an easy time, and the message was not a popular one. Yet he persevered and did not let down. He, like Jesus, paid the ultimate price for this. He had a dream, but his dream did not come true in his lifetime, I pray it will come true in ours.

Blessings, PJ
