

We...come to the aid when tornadoes hit.

We...prepare prisoners for jobs.

We...start new groups and plant new churches.

We...feed those who are hungry.

We...provide shelter to the abused.

We...are Oklahoma strong. We are Oklahoma missions.

You. Me. We.

There's been much said about the "Oklahoma standard". Oklahomans are resilient, strong and persevere in the face of natural disasters and heartache. The hope of Jesus Christ and the desire to see our great state follow Him, drives the mission of Oklahoma Baptists to spread the Gospel. As you lead your church during this season of State Missions Offering, remember the power of WE. Because together, WE are God's coworkers.

Hello Church Family!

There are many great things about Baptist life in Oklahoma, and one of those things is joining in with other churches across the state and spreading the gospel. One way we do that is through the Edna McMillian State Missions Offering. Our Church goal is $1,000.

For we are God's coworkers. You are God's field, God's building. 1 Corinthians 3:9

Elliff laments Christians' callousness

ROCKVILLE, Va. (BP) -- IMB President Tom Elliff is concerned that Christians have become desensitized to everyone's need for a Savior.

Christians pray for others' hearts to be stirred toward Christ but they also need to pray that their own hearts are continually stirred by a deep burden for the spiritually lost, Elliff told International Mission Board trustees during their Aug. 27-28 meeting at the IMB International Learning Center in Rockville, Va.

Elliff said he has a hard time sleeping after watching the evening news, not just because of wars, disasters and other tragedies, but because "every one of us has learned how to look at the most horrific things you can imagine and be unmoved by them."

"We know where the great tragedies are, we see people running for their lives and starving physically," Elliff said. But most often they also are starving spiritually.

"We've learned how to be aware of lostness but not be moved by lostness," Elliff said. "We have a tendency when speaking of lostness to speak of it statistically." But statistical overload, he said, doesn't equate those numbers with individuals in dire need of Jesus.

The words of Proverbs 24:11 haunt Elliff: "Deliver those who are being taken away to death and those who are staggering to slaughter. Oh, hold them back" (NASB).

"'Hold them back,' God says. That's our mandate," Elliff said. "Everything we do must be framed in the light of the lostness of this earth. That's what we're about."

Southern Baptist churches need to be focused together in one sacred effort of pulling people back from lostness and an eternity separated from God, he said.

"Missions is the stack pole of the Southern Baptist Convention," he stated. "Missions is all about lostness."

When Southern Baptists give to the Cooperative Program and the Lottie Moon Christmas Offering for International Missions, it isn't to meet a need IMB has, Elliff stressed. It's to meet the need the world has for the Gospel.
