BSU

The school year has come to an end. The BSU was able to provide our Monday meal to students through the entire year. Numbers were lower than usual but this was seen all over the country. As things began to open this spring, so did lunches. This helped build new relationships with several students and there were new students each week until the last meal.

This year with so many things closed and attendance low, I focused on one-to-one discipleship with several students. That will lead to having future student leaders working in this ministry. One exciting thing for the future is as of May 21 the college has lifted its mask mandate. This opening will allow me to spend a greater amount of time on campus and rebuild the presence of the BSU on the college campus.
