

Now two of them were going to a village called Emmaus... (see Luke 24: 13-35)

Two of the disciples were headed out of town on Easter evening. They had given up on Jerusalem, and on all that it had promised. They were probably headed back home to Galilee. After all, everything that they had counted on, especially the person that they counted on most, was gone wrong, or gone altogether. And so they headed west, toward Emmaus, into the sunset, like a scene out of some old western movie.

A stranger joined them on the road, someone who seemed to know a lot about Jesus and about the scriptures. They told him how Jesus had been executed and buried, and then disappeared...how some of the women had heard that he was alive...and how they did not, could not, believe it. The stranger told them every prophecy in the Hebrew Scriptures that pointed to Jesus and what had happened to him, and how what they had heard was true. He seemed strangely comforting, so they asked him to eat and stay with them at a nearby inn. As they got ready to eat, he took the bread, gave thanks and broke it, and gave it to them. As he did, they recognized him as Jesus, who had broken bread with them three nights before, and hundreds of ordinary days before that. Even as they recognized him, he disappeared from their sight.

Even though it was late in the day, they got up and returned to Jerusalem to find the other disciples.

They turned their backs on the sunset; they turned their backs on a story that was coming to an end; they turned their backs on disbelief and headed back. They headed back toward the sunrise of a new day; they headed back to a story that was just beginning; they headed back to belief, and the sharing of that belief.

They were able to do so because they had let Jesus come into their ordinary, everyday lives. They did not believe when he told them they should believe; they did not believe when he quoted scripture to them. (Neither do we, most of the time, even were Jesus himself to quote it to us!) They believed when Jesus shared with them the ordinary act of breaking bread.

We also find that Jesus is not very real if he stays in church or in the Bible. He only becomes real to us when we let him into our everyday lives – where we eat, and sleep, and share with friends and family. For those disciples, Easter Sunday morning was not what counted, it was Sunday night, and Monday morning, and all the new days that followed. Easter is past for this year. But the reality of Easter is not simply for a day or a season, but for all the new days that follow.

May the risen Christ be part of your every meal, your every journey, your everyday.

In Christ's love,
Pastor Matt Stengel

Thoughts shared from Deacon Dee:

Why is it important for GUMC to send a team of people including our youth on a Mission Camp Experience this summer? Below are thoughts regarding youth and adults in Mission.

- We know from years and years of down-and-dirty experience that short-term Mission Camps are huge life-changers—for both youth and adults and to the people they serve. I grew up attending the summer mission experiences and I know they helped me to form my interest in reaching out to others around me. It transforms lives. Often people still talk about how one Mission Camp changed their lives forever.
- Nothing in our church activity generates as much long-term spiritual and relational growth in youth and adults as a short-term Mission trip. Evident in broad-range research:
- "Opportunities for service and missions" is one of the top three reasons why youth stay involved in their church or youth group. According to a GROUP Publishing massive survey of more than 23,000 Christian teenagers, the top reasons why they maintain their connection to church include: 1) The friendships I have at church (57%), 2) Opportunities to grow deeper in my relationship with God (43%), and 3) Opportunities for service and missions (39%).
- Teenagers say they want more, not less, opportunities to serve. Thousands of Christian teenagers all over the country were asked to share what activity they'd like to do more often, "Workcamps" was the fourth-highest-scoring "more often" choice (at 87%), just behind "learning more about Jesus" (91%), "games and fun activities (89%), and "relaxed hang-out time" (88%).
- The benefits students say they experience from serving others in short-term settings are astonishing:
 - Made me feel closer to God. (82%)
 - Made me feel better about who I am. (80%)
 - Created new and valuable friendships in my life. (74%)
 - Increased my compassion for people in need. (70%)
 - Made me more likely to serve others in my everyday life. (69%)
 - Showed me I can make a significant impact on the world. (68%)
 - Deepened my relationships with existing friends. (66%)
 - Made me less self-focused and more others-focused. (62%)
 - Developed leadership abilities in me. (61%)
 - Humbled me. (60%)
 - Made me more confident as a person. (60%)
 - Permanently changed the way I think about "what I deserve" in life. (55%)
 - Taught me to rely on God's guidance in my life (55%)
 - Helped me make deeper relationship connections with other adults. (52%)
 - Helped me to actually share my faith in Christ with more people. (50%)
 - Helped my relationship with my parents to grow and get better. (26%)

We are looking for youth and adults to go to Oneida area of NY State to help with flood relief the week of July 27 - August 1, 2014.

Serving together, Dee

Message from Outreach:

Mother Teresa once said, "Good works are links that form a chain of love." Through the generous donations of undies and children's books, we have certainly forged part of a chain of love in the community. March's undie basket yielded 19 packages (127 pairs) which we delivered to six elementary schools (West Ridge, Holmes Road, Autumn Lane, Longridge, English Village, and Brookside/Parkland).

Numerous other children will benefit from the two crates of gently-used books collected for part of the Rochester Area Literacy Council's mission.

In addition, Atria Senior Living donated undies as well as two boxes of provisions for the Food Shelf.

I think Mother Teresa would be happy with our links in the chain, helping others and reflecting that although "[we] alone cannot change the world, [we] can cast a stone across the water to create many ripples."

Many thanks for your continuing support!

STEWARDSHIP

Working with the Finance committee, we've been discussing ways to raise funds to close the budget gap. Your first Sunday Budget Gap giving has been a big help, but is down from the prior year. Please remember to consider giving $10 or more or whatever you can afford on the first Sunday of each month; mark your envelope clearly the amount you're giving to that effort.

As a group, the Finance committee will be looking at ways to close the budget gap, from fundraisers to budget cuts. It's difficult to balance the number and types of fundraisers without overdoing those efforts. Our congregation has always been strong at supporting fundraisers for our UMW, our youth programs, Habitat and other such efforts. It's also difficult to look at budgeted expenses and the impact cuts might have on the overall health of the church. Our staff and our committee chairpersons all work hard at finding programs that will enhance our church experiences and, hopefully, grow our church in numbers and in impact on the members and community.

As church members, we're called on to be good stewards, not only with our finances but our time and talents. We thank you for all you do and encourage you to continue with your support.

Bill Mason

Finance Report:

To follow up on the recent note in the bulletin in regards to our finances:

In 2012 the Stewardship Committee started the Budget Gap giving campaign requesting a 10.00 per month gift to try and decrease the budget shortfall. That year we raised $12,314.50 with 106 givers out of 216 supporting this project. (47%).

In 2013 the Stewardship committee asked for the Church to continue with the project since it did a lot of good for us. In 2013 we raised $8,370.05 with 57 out of 200 donating monthly. (29%).

Again the Stewardship committee asked for a continuance in 2014. The Budget situation was not getting any better. As of the end of March 2014 we had 41 out of 147 supporting this project. (28%)

The Budget Gap is an opportunity for all of us to close the gap that exists in our Church's Finances. Any contribution helps and will give us an opportunity to pay our bills. As you can see, the support for this program is dwindling. All of us need to join together to keep our church going.

As of the end of March we had accumulated $77,325.40 in usable Funds. We had spent $74,562.33 and still had $11,915.14 to pay for the month of March. This results in a shortfall of $9,152.07. Needless to say we are losing ground.

Hopefully we can close the Budget Gap with an all out effort. Whether it be $1, $5, $10, or $20 dollars — all will help. Let's challenge each other to answer this call.

Have a Blessed Easter

Bill

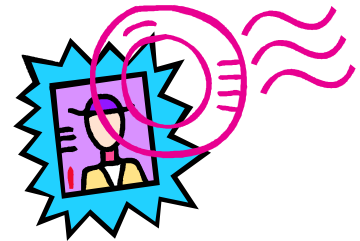

Sunday School Mission Project

Join us in "Stamp Act" for Curriculum

This year, the Sunday School classes are joining with the Alliance Stamp Ministry in collecting and recycling cancelled stamps. The proceeds go toward publishing Spanish language Sunday school materials and distributing them to churches in Latin America. Even in the age of e-mail, people are still using stamps. Help us by collecting your used envelopes and trimming them so the stamps have at least a 1/3 of paper left around them. If you are not comfortable trimming the stamps, just bring in the used envelopes in and our volunteers will trim them for you.

Thank you in advance for helping us spread the God's word to others in the world.

Any questions, please contact Jean Lee.

FORGIVENESS

Jesus died on the cross so that our sins would be forgiven. All of our sins. Not just some of them. All of our sins in the past, present, and future. That means no matter what I do, I will always be forgiven.

Can YOU do that? No matter what is done to you, forgive?

Jesus forgave those around him while he was on the cross.

Luke 23:34 And Jesus said, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

Sometimes, forgiveness is an event.

Sometimes, forgiveness is a journey.

It's easy to forgive the little things. Not so much when it's a bigger thing. Not so much when the behavior rips into the core of your inner-most being. Not so much when it's repeated behavior that never seems to end.

So, what exactly is the deal with forgiveness? How does it work?

Forgiveness is releasing the negative emotions that you're holding onto.

It's not forgetting what happened to you.

Forgiveness is separating the person from those actions, releasing the negative emotions associated with the actions, and looking at the person in a different light.

Think about this... When you hold onto the negative emotions associated with not forgiving, who is affected by that? The person who "did something" to you? Or is it you? That other person may not even know you're still upset. That other person may have "moved on" emotionally and has never given it a second thought.

When my kids were in grade school, I told them that they should look at a bully a little differently... Don't be angry because they're mean. A bully has low self-esteem and the only way for that bully to feel good is to make someone else feel bad. How sad is that? If you consider that the bully is someone who needs help, you might think of that bully differently. Have you ever considered that someone who has done something to you really just needs help? You might think of that person a little differently.

So... who do you need to forgive? Work on forgiving that person. You'll feel better. You might even feel liberated without that emotion dragging you down.

Finally, I heard a phrase used by Byron Katie recently. The phrase she uses is "who would you be without that?" Think about the emotions you have tied up in a person you can't forgive. Really feel it. Be with it for a while. And then think to yourself... "Who would I be without those emotions?"

Forgive someone today.

Forgive someone tomorrow.

Jesus said forgive someone seven times seventy times.

And, when you've done that, forgive them again.

Please forgive me if I left out your name; the oversight is mine and I apologize.

One more thank you: to the Dick Hamblin anniversary ministry---in April, we received the altar flower bouquet for being the longest married. What a lovely gesture---Dick even delivered to our home.
