

“Were not our hearts burning within us while He was speaking to us on the road, while He was explaining the Scriptures to us?” Luke 24:32

Around 1973 while living in Rapid City, South Dakota, we bought a used Chevy Nova. It had an electrical cord in the grill that you could plug into an outlet. It was a water heater to keep the radiator water warm on those cold winter days and nights. I think it worked ok, we just did not have any place to plug it in.

What keeps our spirits warm when the world seems cold? Two people in today’s text discovered that their hearts were warmed when they walked with and listened to the Lord. We can do the same. We don’t need a power cord, we simply need to pray.

"And He walks with me, and He talks with me, and He tells me I am His own; and the joy we share as we tarry there, none other has ever known."
