Parenting Tools: Bless your child's seeking God's help and placing their hope in Christ rather than in other worldly pursuits, possessions, and relationships.

"Blessed is he whose help is the God of Jacob, whose hope is in the Lord his God." Psalm 146:5

In what ways is my child already displaying that God alone is their helper and their hope?

◦ Tell your child...

▪ <Child's Name>, it excites me to see that you sought the Lord's help in... and placed your hope in Him by...

In what ways do I hope my child will continue to lean on God for help?

◦ Tell your child...

▪ <Child's Name>, I hope that when trials come like... you will continue to first seek God's help and to place your hope in Him not in...

What challenge will my child likely face this year regarding seeking God's help above all others and placing their hope in Christ above all others?

How will I commit to helping my child face this challenge?

When will be the best time to give my child this blessing?

Is there a "meaningful marker" that I can give my child to make this blessing memorable?
