

Royalty's Finest

Scripture: On his robe and on his thigh he has this name written: KING OF KINGS AND LORD OF LORDS. ~ Revelation 19:16

Is a church important?

I don't know how many of you watched the royal wedding of Britain's Prince Harry to African-American born actress Meagan Markle, but what a nice celebration. In England, they sure know how to put on a display for the royal family. Hundreds of guards engaged in the procession, member after member of the royal family pass by, the Queen is seen with her future granddaughter-in-law's dog riding along side of her, and then the arrival of the bride and groom. No one really knows what the conversation may have been like the first time Meagan met the queen, nor will we know what Harry and William discussed the times leading up to this union. One thing we do know is that day was set aside by all of England to honor the marriage of one of its royal family members. After receiving the Queen's blessing, Harry and Meagan had a wedding for the ages. With a gospel choir, evangelistic priest preaching the message, and the countless number of attendees who were famous in their own right, everyone was seeing royalty at its finest. But when you see this, has your mind ever wondered about what it will be like when you attend Heaven's royal wedding? There will be an endless list of attendees who are famous in their own rights, the Son of God, and Prince of Peace, will be on full display, angelic choirs will sing the most beautiful of melodious sonnets ever penned, and God himself will declare the beginning of a union that will last for eternity. My mind could not help but to remember what John described in Revelation. I remembered the words he spoke in Revelation 19:16. Immediately my mind began racing. Presidents of countries, royal monarchs of all ages dating back to the foundations of the world, famous dignitaries of history will all bow once and for all at ONE KING'S feet, the King of ALL Kings, Jesus Christ. I may kneel next to the Queen of England, Czar of Russia, President of the United States, Abraham, David, or even possibly a disciple, but in the end will bow before Him as well. What a sobering picture. When my life's entire journey is complete, I will be invited, attend, and partake in the greatest of all wedding celebrating in history, the Marriage of the Lamb. Britain may can put on quite the display of royal festivities, but even they can't match the display Heaven will reveal.

Prayer: Lord, let me stay focused on you. Let me stay a bride true and pure until my marriage to you in Heaven. Never let me lose sight of the goal. In Jesus name, Amen!
