NAMI Metropolitan Baltimore, an affiliate of the National Alliance on Mental Illness, is dedicated to improving the lives of people living with mental illness, their families, and communities through education, support and advocacy.

Mental Health Forum: Geriatric Mental Health - Part 2

Join NAMI Metro Baltimore and Dr. Dan Hale for Part 2 of the Geriatric Mental Health Series. You will learn about mood disorders, their relationship to other medical conditions, and how family and friends can support individuals who have these disorders.

Dr. Hale is Special Advisor to the President of Johns Hopkins Bayview Medical Center and Director of the Healthy Community Partnership. He also is an Assistant Professor at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine. In 2011, Dr. Hale was Professor of Clinical Psychology at Stetson University, where he also served as Director of the Community Health Initiative. Dr. Hale's early research focused on depression, especially among older adults. In 1992, he began working with Drs. Richard Bennett and John Burton of the Division of Geriatric Medicine and Gerontology at Johns Hopkins to develop community-based health programs built around partnerships between medical institutions and religious congregations. This successful collaboration with Drs. Burton and Bennett led to the publication of several reports on their work and co-authorship with Dr. Bennett of Building Healthy Communities through Medical-Religious Partnerships, published by Johns Hopkins University Press and now in its third edition (2018).
