

WHO'S AFRAID OF DA VINCI?

Churches around the United States are conducting seminars. Preachers are preaching sermons, and in some cases, series of sermons. Denominational newspapers are issuing warnings not to attend. Everyone is talking about the Da Vinci Code. What's all the hubbub? Its just a fictional book. And now it is about to become a fictional movie.

What's there to be afraid of? Nothing! So the author has concocted a fanciful tale about Jesus' marriage to Mary Magdalene? So his tale includes secrets, clues, cover ups, lies, deceptions, ad nauseam? That's the stuff novels are made of. And its made the Dan Browns of this world very very rich.

The Bible and Christianity has withstood more serious assaults than this. Surprise, its still intact. The Bible is still the infallible word of God. Christianity is still standing. Christians can rest assured their faith is valid and will remain so until Jesus comes!

So stop worrying that this is the downfall of our faith as we know it. If nothing else, this tempest in a teapot may point more people to the truth of the gospel and its ability to save us from our sins. Let Hollywood have their day. Let the media interview there authorities.

The last word is this...Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today and forever. Enough said.
