Kim's Corner

Keeping My Eyes on Jesus

Last week I had an early morning meeting in San Francisco, so I rushed into my car and drove off. On a stretch of Highway 101, near the SF airport, my mind wandered off. I found myself on an unfamiliar street. Instead of exiting onto highway 280, I went straight on 101. I tried to get off at the next exit and reverse my route. "Simple", I thought to myself, but it wasn't. I couldn't see the highway entrance. The more turns I made to find my way out, the deeper I got into strange corners where I had a harder time getting out. Eventually, I found my way to the university, feeling stupid and anxious about missing an important meeting at work.

Afterward, I considered my getting lost experience. It happened in a split second. My mind was not on where I was going. As a matter of fact, I was replaying in my mind an unpleasant incident that happened the day before at work. The more I replayed the incident, the angrier I became. Instead of giving it to the Lord and forgiving the person, I was trying to figure out the person's motive. My mind [and my car] ran off in a wrong direction.

During our Christian walk, we often lose our way, if we are not careful. Just as I knew my destination perfectly, most Christians know where we are going. And yet, if we are not aware every minute during our walk, we could miss our exit and turn in a wrong direction. As soon as I learned of my mistake, I turned around. It still cost me an hour to get back on track and I missed an important meeting. I caused other people to wait for me and several meetings had to be rescheduled. If we take our eyes off Jesus, we make mistakes and bring grief to ourselves and cause problems for others.

I am looking forward to the visit of my friend, Pastor Paul Gasigi from Rwanda. He is scheduled to be with me from May 14 to 18. Paul will be accompanied by his wife, Marie Jeanne.

I met Paul on my first mission trip to Africa in 2001. During that visit, I learned about his history and how he survived the horrendous genocide that lasted 100 days in 1994 when about 800,000 Rwandese were murdered by their neighbors. Paul's first wife disappeared in that chaos but miraculously Paul survived, running from place to place and hiding with his two young boys. [If you want to hear more of his story, join us for the Sunday morning service on May 17].

In 2005, Kim and I determined to launch our own mission in Africa. We formed "Come and See Africa" [CASA] as a non-profit organization that ministers to students at the University of Rwanda. After a year, it became apparent that we could not supervise this African operation from our home in California. That's when we asked Pastor Paul to form a sister non-profit organization which came to be called "Come and See Rwanda" [CASR].

Pastor Paul is now President of CASR working closely with CASA to bring the gospel to the university community in Rwanda. We are collaborating to build the LIGHTHOUSE - a Christian resource and refuge located at the back gate of the University of Rwanda. While Paul and Marie Jeanne are in America, we hope to raise funds -- to raise up this building -- to raise up the name of Jesus in a part of the world that is in desperate need of His saving Gospel.
