

Meet the Williams Family

Bro J P Williams

JP was born just outside of Detroit, MI, and grew up as an Air Force “brat.” He was saved at age 15 and shortly after answered the call to the ministry. He has served in both volunteer and staff ministry roles for over twenty years as a youth minister, church planter, and pastor in rural churches in Oklahoma and Missouri.

He is a graduate of Southwest Baptist University (BA Biblical Studies, 2006). He and his wife Vicki have been married for 20 years and have been blessed with seven children. His philosophy of ministry is that “..there’s a lot of talk about whether leadership is about leading from in front or driving from behind. My experience has been that leadership in ministry is about walking alongside people. The Great Commission is the mission of every local church. A pastor is to personally share their faith and equip a congregation to spread the Gospel and live out the Greatest Commandment where we live and work. I love sharing Jesus with people.”

Vicki Williams

Vicki was born just a few hours south of JP in Springfield, OH. Her father also was in the Air Force and by God’s grace, she and JP eventually met in Altus, OK in 1997 after being stationed all over the United States and in Germany. Her call to ministry began first with her salvation at age 16 then when she began dating a young youth pastor later that year. Early in their marriage, she worked outside the home until the Lord called her to stay home. Since then she has been serving alongside her husband as a full-time stay at home helpmeet to JP and homeschool mom to their seven children. Her philosophy of ministry has always been to first support her husband, second to bring stability to the home while JP kept up with the many demands of ministry and third to encourage women in the model of Titus 2:3-5. She has led a few women’s ministries, small groups, and filled in wherever her talents were needed in the church.
