

Recommendations How to Writer a Research Paper

Recommendations on the allocation of speaking time are given in the previous section.

The presentation should be visual. The material is recommended to be presented in a structural, graphical and schematic form. Long sentences should be avoided in the text.

We recommend that you follow these guidelines when preparing slides:

Research paper Writing Service

Slides should be simple, not overloaded with text and unnecessary data.

It is desirable to use a template with a light background that does not distract from the content of the slide.

The text should be easy to read, the recommended font size is not below 20pt, the color is blue or black. The text should be written in simple, short sentences, reflect the main provisions of the report, essential information. It is recommended to use conventional terminology, explain highly specialized concepts.

- You should not use sound effects or a large number of animations in your presentation.
- Figures, graphs, tables should have a name.
- The content slides must conform to the statement.

Additional materials supporting the presentation and not included in the presentation may be presented as handouts to the report. Examples of such materials can serve as the main points of the presentation, detailed models of business processes, flowcharts, presentation of calculations, examples of instruments, etc. In case of presence of handouts during the presentation, reference should be made to the relevant material.

General structure of the report

Together, these parts should form a single whole and each part should be a logical continuation of the previous one. The principle of the report is as follows: first, the general information on the study is given, then the course and content of the conducted study is presented and the conclusion is summarized.

Best Research paper Writing Service