Moving Forward Announces New Leadership for 2022-23

Ashley Northington to serve as coordinating committee chair

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (August 29, 2022) - Moving Forward, a volunteer-led organization made up of business, community and transit thought leaders, today announced that Ashley Northington will serve as chair of the organization.

Northington, a Nashville native, has served as vice chair of Moving Forward since January 2020 and will succeed Todd Rolapp, managing partner of Bass, Berry & Sims, who served the past four years as chair.

Northington is a dedicated advocate for transit and mobility, valuing equity as a priority when considering investments in mobility options for Middle Tennesseans.

“I am excited to continue to be part of Moving Forward’s important work in this new role,” Northington said. “With Nashville’s robust growth, it is as important as ever to focus on regional mobility solutions for residents all over Middle Tennessee.”

Northington currently serves as senior vice president and managing director for the RW Jones Agency. Prior to that, she founded and was director of DENOR Brands + Public Relations.

She will be joined on Moving Forward’s coordinating committee, which serves as the organization’s leadership and governing body, by:

Al Pramuk, Gresham Smith

Curtis Johnson, Tennessee State University

Erin Hafkenschiel, Think Tennessee

Jack Gaughan, RE/MAX Choice Properties

Moving Forward remains committed to securing dedicated funding for transit. Moving Forward believes that investment in a community vision for transit and mobility will ensure that Middle Tennessee resident will benefit from investments that connect communities as well as provide access to jobs, education, and economic opportunity.
