WELL-BEING THROUGH THE RITUAL OF HYDROTHERAPY

Ice Fountain

The Ice Fountain's purpose is to provide the ultimate hot/cold contrast during your thermal bath circuit. This phase is highly recommended for a general stimulation of the body, specifically aiding the process of vasoconstriction and helping achieve a supple circulatory system.

The object of this bath is to rub the surface of the skin with the Fountain's ice to maximum the benefit from the thermal contrast phase.

The resulting benefits include: muscle relaxation, stimulation of the nervous system, and a period of optimal vasoconstriction.

Cold Mist Shower

This bath has an efficient, soothing thermal contrast, with a temperature controlled mist constantly maintained around 15°C, giving a pleasant combination of cool thermal contrast with a persistently delicate and relaxing ambiance.

Thermal Contrast Nebuliser Bath

This bath has an efficient, soothing thermal contrast, with a temperature-controlled nebuliser constantly maintained around 15°C, giving a pleasant combination of cool thermal contrast with a persistently delicate and relaxing ambiance.

Cold Plunge Lagoon

This pool's purpose is to provide efficient thermal contrast after a hot sauna, steam room, or jacuzzi phase. A rapid plunge into waters at controlled temperatures between 15°C and 18°C causes rapid thermal contrast and vasoconstriction throughout the body. Thermal contrast also helps optimize circulation and boost the immune system.

SPA SERVICES

Jacuzzi

A hydromassage bath, more commonly known as a jacuzzi or hot tub, is a warm/hot water tub equipped with a series of motor-propelled nozzles that shoot high-pressure streams of water, providing relief to specific areas in the back and legs via directed hydromassage.

Sensory Pool

The Sensory Pool is the evolution of immersion baths. This pool was built to provide the ultimate in relaxation and hydrotherapy for the entire body. A series of different hydrojets provide a distinct range of hydromassages and sensations. Bubble propulsion and water jets configured at different pressures can provide both a dynamic and relaxing massage. Hydrotherapy benefits include: muscle relaxation, stimulation of the circulatory system, and relief of joint soreness, as well as stress-related discomfort.

The contrast pool offers the following areas:

Bubble Beds: A placid rolling bed that provides a delicate hydromassage through relaxing air bubbles.

Triple Level Hydromassage: Provides a localized massage via the application of water jets directed at the hips, thighs, and calves.

Geyser/Air Sole Massage: Simultaneously provides a stimulating and relaxing massage on the soles of one's feet.

Swan Neck: This long stainless steel tube with a narrow nozzle is designed to produce outstanding water pressure, which in turn provides an intense, dynamic hydromassage, ideal for aching backs.

Waterfall: Designed to provide a gentle cascade effect, thus helping relieve the neck and shoulders from muscular tension and discomfort.
