

Part 1: Brainstorm! THIS IS A BRAIN STORM, USE RAPID FIRE ANSWERS, CALL OUT your ideas for topics, do not discuss or comment on anyone's suggestions. 10 minutes

Prompt: Participating in One Day on Earth is an opportunity to create a global video collaboration. What will you share with the world? Brainstorm what topics you want to do as a class project. To help inform your decision, think of the following questions:

How would you share your creativity?

What about your life, your family, your culture, or your community would you want to share?

Is there cause that you would like to raise awareness about through your participation?

What inspires you to take make videos?

What do you think is the most important thing to know for a person who has never been to your community, town, city, state or country?

Is there someone you know or a group of people in your community that is helping to make the world a better place, who are they and what are they doing?

What about your community would you like to show people 500 years in the future? What would you like to have been able to see 500 years ago?

- Once time is up, take a break, and look at what is written on the board.
- Combine similarities, and cross out duplications.
- Out of the topics left on the board choose one topic that interests you.
- Break into groups based on topic choices.

Part 2: Break out groups discussion 10 minutes

Now that you have a potential topic, answer the following questions with your group.

What resources are needed to cover this topic, and are those resources available to you?

What skills are needed to cover this topic?

Can you document your topic in one day?

Is your topic physically safe to film?

Is your topic appropriate for your community?

Is there a specific location where your topic must be documented? If not, what location can you think of that would support your topic?

Part 3: Break out Group REPORTS and Final Decision 10 minutes

Step 1- Regroup choose one student to report on the feedback from your breakout discussion.

Step 2- Based on group reports, cross out any topics that are not feasible.

Step 3- Collectively, or individually, decide on a final topic from those left on the board as the subject of your project.

Assignment: Write a one page paper on the topic you have chosen to document.

Please explain, in writing:

the topic you chose

why you chose it

how you will document it for how long of a time period on 10.10.10 you plan to shoot: time of day, hours, minutes

what resources you will need to document your topic

the location you will document your topic in what importance this topic has to you and your class

what importance you believe this topic will have to the world
