Take a Good Look at God

Anna had a dream for her son, James. She hoped he would graduate from West Point and gain fame as a military leader. But his dismal showing led to James' ignoble departure from the military academy in 1854. Then James was free to pursue his real devotion: art. With his success Anna, his mother, gained a prominence she never imagined, being recognized and appreciated by art lovers 139 years after her death. Her son was James Whistler, and Anna is Whistler's Mother.

Part of Whistler's success has been attributed to his ability to know the most minute details of his subjects and to then paint out of familiarity. When a model failed to show up for a session, Whistler asked his mother to stand in as a substitute. There was perhaps no other person in all the world that Whistler knew better than his own mother. Is it any wonder that this portrait would be considered his greatest?

If Christians want to regularly assemble to worship God, they ought to spend time getting to know God. How can we live from day to day without talking to Him, reading His Word, obeying His Son and then expect to worship Him in a meaningful way on Sundays? Let me challenge you to REALLY get to know God, then you will recognize that our God is worthy of worship.
