7:15 a.m. – 4:45 p.m.

Texas Children's Meyer Building
1919 S. Braeswood,
Houston, TX 77030

Program Overview

The Association for Nursing Professional Development - Houston Affiliate is proud to sponsor this Nursing Professional Development (NPD) workshop that offers valuable information for nursing educators throughout the greater Houston area and neighboring communities.

At the conclusion of this continuing nursing education activity, the learner will:

- Cultivate strategies to illustrate return on investment for nursing professional development activities
- Execute project management skills to manage robust nursing professional development programs and projects

Char Smith, DNS, MEd,
WHNP, RN-BC, CNE, ANEF

Dr. Char Smith has extensive experience as a nurse educator in both practice and academic settings. Currently she is the full-time Professor at the Wegams School of Nursing, St. John Fisher College with current and past teaching responsibilities in the BS, online RN to BS, MS in nursing education, and doctoral level nursing programs. A registered professional nurse and Women's Health Nurse Practitioner, she has worked as a staff nurse, nursing supervisor, nurse educator, clinical instructor, and clinical care manager. She received her MS in Education from SUNY College at Brockport and her MS in Nursing and Doctorate in Nursing Science from the University at Buffalo. Dr. Smith has presented regionally, nationally, and internationally and consulted on topics related to educational design, competence assessment, and online learning. She has published articles and book chapters on evidence-based education, nurse professional development, and online learning.

Sue Johnson,
