COURSE DESCRIPTION

This program will explore perianesthesia nursing issues that contribute to patient safety and enhanced nursing practice.

OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this educational program, the participant will be able to:

- Describe critical pre and post-op patient assessment concerns and how to respond effectively.
- Discuss pediatric patient obesity as an unrecognized perianesthesia risk.
- List three alternatives to lessen opioid use in perioperative pain management.
- State examples of how continued learning and education beyond work place orientation and experience enhance and impact patient outcomes.
