MEET THE EDITOR

Hey everyone, and Happy New Year! My name is Miranda Jackson and I am excited to be the new editor for The Central Line. I am from Odessa, Texas and attend Covenant School of Nursing, where I am the president of our nursing student association and a student representative. I plan on continuing my education after graduation and get the required experience in the ICU to apply to a CRNA program in Houston.

I love to volunteer in my spare time, read (anything but a textbook), and paint.

GOALS FOR CENTRAL LINE

I have so many exciting things I would like to do with Central Line! One of my main goals is to highlight students and Texas chapters that are making a difference and getting involved in the community. As a fellow nursing student, it's essential that we stick together to get through school! So for our future newsletters, I plan on providing study tips, ways to rid of stress, links to free nursing bundles that can be beneficial for all of us! I am also going to be updating you guys and providing information on all TNSA events, providing links to resolutions, and a chance for students to submit their own articles to be featured on Central Line. Make sure you're following our new Facebook and Instagram page! The QR code is provided along with our email address so you can keep us in the loop with whats going on in your local chapter.
