

About Today's Speaker:
Kevin Schitoskey, MSN RN TCRN CFRN CMTE
Instructor, Solheim Enterprises

Kevin Schitoskey is currently the Director of Patient Safety for Med-Trans Corporation, a nationwide air medical provider. Previously, Mr. Schitoskey was the Director of Emergency Services at University of New Mexico Hospitals in Albuquerque, New Mexico, the only Level I Trauma Center in the region. Starting as a 'new grad' in 1995, Kevin's clinical career ran spanned critical care, Level I trauma, and eventually flight. After several years of leading the hospital-based flight program, Kevin was promoted to Director of Emergency Services.

Like countless others in our industry, Kevin's career in Emergency Medical Services started in 1986 quite by accident – as a volunteer. The community volunteer fire department started Kevin down a path familiar to many of you; EMT, fire-fighter, nursing school...

Mr. Schitoskey received an MSN in Administration from University of New Mexico. He has been very active in education, in both leadership and clinical arenas. Kevin has presented at the regional, state, and national level and is an active Transport Provider Advanced Trauma Course instructor. Kevin's time is occupied by his 17-year-old son and 12-year-old daughter, and wife of 21 years.
