

A Taste of Local History circa 1800...

A Virtual Event on July 25 @5p with Food from Hudson Mart

Learn from Cuisine Historian Lavada Nahon about the day-to-day life of the farmers and their workers of the Lower Hudson Valley, many of whom were enslaved, with special attention to what they were eating and drinking, who was preparing it, and more.

A special take-out meal chosen by Nahon to accompany the presentation is based on recipes from historic cookbooks. The meal will be prepared by Hudson Market on Main at 5 N. Broadway for pick-up between 1p and 4p. The special historic menu:

- Spinach Tart
- Pickled vegetables
- Potato Salad with farm fixings
- Pound Cake and Ginger Cookies

We did our best to make this event affordable – and offer for those who can, a way to generously support Local History, so please consider the Local History Patron or Local History Benefactor option.

How to Order

You may order any of the five choices online, at nyackhistory.org or pay by check with the form below. Meals are available for two or four people (or any other multiple of 2.) All meal selections come with a Zoom link. For those unable to pick up a meal, we will donate your meal to those in need in Nyack. Orders must be placed by July 20th.
