The Spirit's A-Movin ...

Clockwise: Our Lady of the Lake, L.C.'s chapel, provides a sun-filled atmosphere for prayers and meditation. Maria Drda reads the introduction for L.C.'s combined Homecoming and 18th Birthday Mass. Fr. Leo conveys the gospel message in terms of our daily lives. For a change of surroundings, the student body gathers together in the Commons for Liturgy. (Left to right:) Kathleen Lesner, Chris McNulty, Dino Sansotta, Kathy Shelton, Lee Koury, and Becky Hobson radiate the spirit through song at Mass. Scott Novotny and Matt Clay help in the liturgical procession.

... All Through Our Lives

What does joining in the spirit of Lorain Catholic mean to you? Cheering on that special Spartan team or playing against that tough school rival really brings out the meaning of Spartan Spirit. But it's more! When you work to achieve your best grades, score those extra points, or finish that complicated assignment, the spirit's meaning shines through. As more spirit catches on, participating in a school Mass and showing your most outstanding talents in L.C. clubs become other ways to show your spirit. L.C. spirit is patriotism, helping others, being with others. It is a spirit that keeps A'Movin All Through Our Lives!

— Jamie Lines

Speaking of Spartan Spirit . . .

Who could all these enthusiastic individuals be? Why, L.C. SPARTANS, of course! The student body gathers together to cheer on our teams.

Fairytales Can Come True to Life

Homecoming: "A Fairy Tale Come True". On September 25, 1987, the night everyone anticipated had finally arrived. Students, parents and friends crowded together as the annual float parade got underway. Just as the theme, "Fairy Tales" suggests, the class floats reflected hard work, dedication, spirit and imagination! Float honors were taken by the Juniors with their First Place "Wizard of Oz" float, followed by the Seniors in Second Place with "Cinderella." Freshman took Third with "The Three Little Pigs," and the Sophomores carried Fourth place with "Sleeping Beauty." Freshmen attendants, Colleen Bury and Darryl Whitfield, Sophomore attendants Michelle Brove and Ernie Falasco, and Junior attendants Heather Cassidy and Lou Stevens stood in the spotlight, excitement growing. Its height was reached with the introduction of "Prince" Greg Ferner (Senior attendant), "Princesses" Julie Bays (Third attendant), Stephanie Rusin (Second attendant), Stephanie Filak (First attendant), Homecoming King Marco Sansotta, and the crowning of Natalie Rich as Homecoming Queen. Despite the loss to Fremont St. Joes, the Homecoming Spirit never dwindled during the evening. The week concluded with the annual Homecoming Dance. All was A TALE WORTH RETELLING!

— Natalie Rich

The seventh and eighth grade cheerleaders and marching band start the Homecoming festivities on a cheerful note.

(Above) Homecoming attendants Stephanie Filak, Julie Bays, and Stephanie Rusin sit proudly with the king and queen, Marco Sansota and Natalie Rich. (Left) The recently crowned Natalie Rich poses for the camera with a shining smile.

Look at that concentration on Nicole Izold's face!

Dancing Spirit

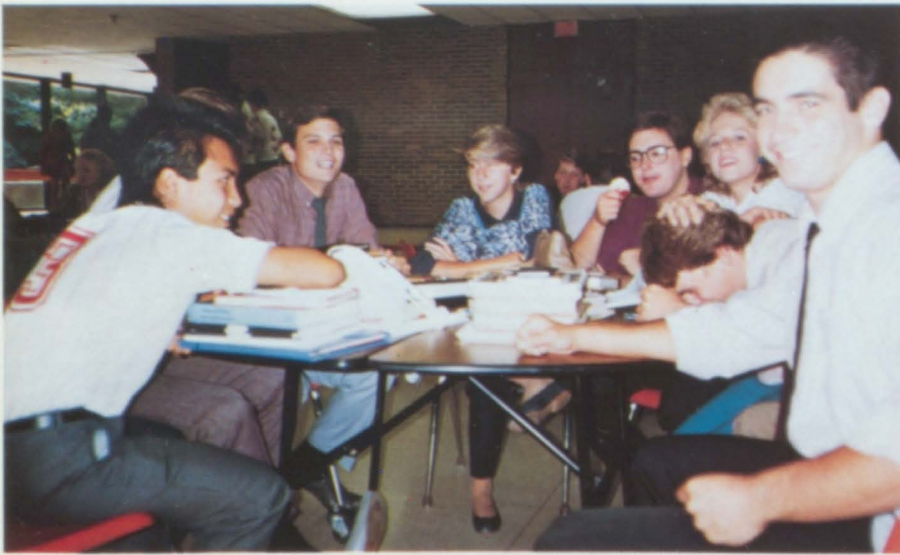

(Top left and Clockwise) Jen Schwartz and Heather Miller show their dancing style. Anna Greulich and her date join in the fun. A Miller-Lopez dance up an "Aloha" in the middle of the dance floor. Tricia Russ, Sue Tomko, Tina Wolford and Maria Drda getting into the swing of things. "Need some help?" Heather Cassidy asks a dancing "Senior citizen," Mike Kirchner.

(Clockwise) Chris Benton jams to the beat. Tricia Russ and Jim Jurasin sport their Christmas Dance attire. Joe Russ, and Patti Wagner. Jenny Clay and her escort, Frank Leon. Julie Froilan and date (Rick Castro)? Maureen Bury shows Miles Sweeney how to dance.

Clockwise from top left: Students celebrate LC's 18th birthday and homecoming by launching red and gray balloons. Bob Psaropoulos asks Dino Sansotto to cut in, but the dinosaur has other ideas. Yearbook members play elves while stringing Christmas candygrams. Avon students walk into LC with Amy Rowell leading the way. Rob Tibbitts listens in as the freshman girls discuss the day's hot gossip.

Yearbook — A student's view. "In any team sport the players are required to put forth their best efforts to achieve rewarding results. In these terms, Yearbook can also be considered a sport. The task of covering and organizing school events to create a complete and accurate memory book of the 1987-88 school year was set in front of the Yearbook members. Although Yearbook requires extra hours of time after school almost every day, we all believe the finished product is well worth the effort. Our team pulled together during those times of tension when we were forced to meet deadlines. This Yearbook experience gave us the opportunity to share our talents, determination, friendship and 'fun times' that went hand in hand with being a team member."

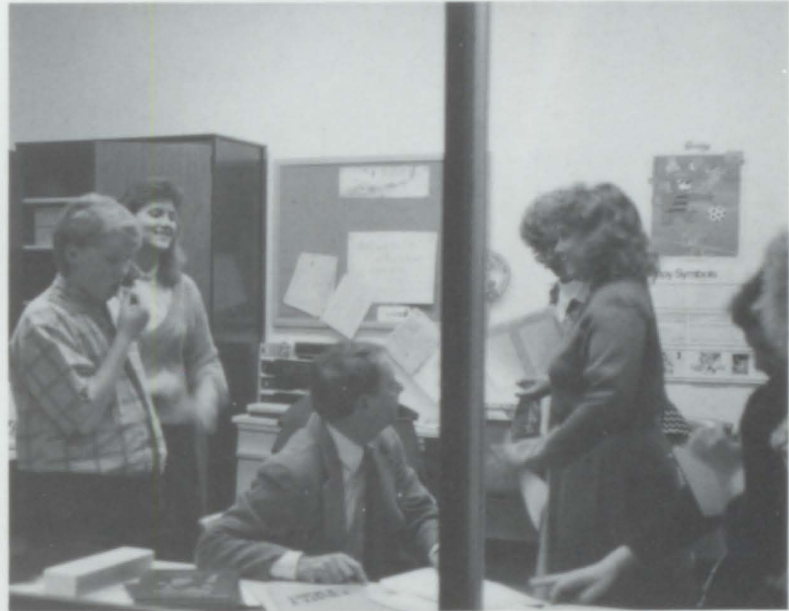

— Barb Aquilla

Miss Koi, Assistant Advisor, and (L-R) Rich Good, Kelly Danevich, Tom Olak, and Angie Weaver — a happy team.

Yearbook Staff Spirit

Defining spirit isn't easy. But "Spirit" does define the Yearbook Staff. This group of individuals faced the opponent — deadlines, and put forth a valiant effort to win. They produced a yearbook that once again makes us proud of the Staff. Although there were no rallies, banquets or public performances to acknowledge the success of this "team's" efforts, we are proud of each of them. Their dedication and selfless perseverance is the "Spirit" of which this school is made.

— Sr. M. Cordell, Advisor

The "Torch" shines on!

Kate Kraven ponders over her next step before the final copy. (Below) For some, (like Aaron), Journalism tends to make their hair stand on edge; for others, like Stephanie, Journalism is like a "walk in the park."

While Beth Erickson studies a recent news story, Gina Bennett and Cyndi Chiulik, alias "Lois and Lane," concentrate on their next Pulitzer Prize winner. (Below) While most of the Journalism class takes Advisor, Mrs. Molnar seriously, Sharon Kapalin chuckles over a "silly" assignment.

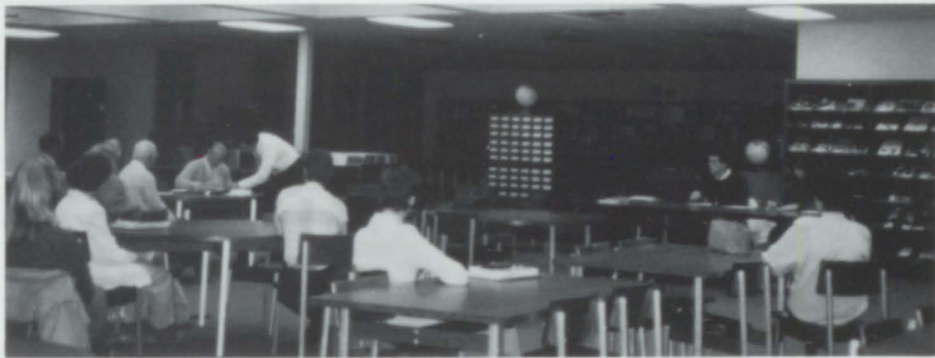

Cyndi Gehlmann feeds in copy to Sharon Kapalin, as Sharon feeds it into the computer. Bromo Seltzer, anyone?

Kelly, D'Arcy and Amy sing the praises of Oklahoma.

Ali (Dave Richards) pulls another surprise out of his "Bottomless Bag" of goodies.

Chris McNulty contemplates being a "Poor Dead Judd".

All the work comes together as we see the awesome cast of characters, set against a fantastic backdrop of stage scenery (under the direction of Mr. Tom Carey). Sr. Pat Slater, Miss Milicia and Mrs. Kasprowski did a super job of directing the characters, teaching the music, and choreographing the dance.

OKLAHOMA! (Clockwise from top right) "Well, Tricia, maybe you learned after numerous practices, how to say 'No'." Looks like someone is in trouble . . . Could be that suave talker, Dave Richards from the expression on Gary Butchko's face and gun in hand. "Please girls, just give me a little peek of what's inside your picnic basket" pleads cowboy Bill Damm. "Everything is up to date in Kansas City!" exclaims Will (A.K.A. Dino) "Wow! Think about having heat in your house!" . . . Bob Golubski, Pat Rowell, Al Volak and Matt Rieck are amazed at that one. "I hope I'm not out of step," thinks Cristina as Maureen Bury and Gayle Kasproski confidently dance on.

"Time Is On Our Side"

Seniors strut their stuff . . . Go, Brian, Chris, Dave, Chris!

"Don't step on the ruffles, Keith, it's a brand new dress." exclaims Dawn.

Look at those beautiful, smiling faces!

My, aren't they a fun-loving gang?!

Steve Luca and Kathryn Buckley make a smashing couple. Marsha Rock and Vince DeAngelis strike a 'future Seniors' pose for the camera. Okay, you guys, where are your dates? There's no other day quite like it — SPARTAN SUNSHINE DAY! It is a day when the Special Spirit that is L. C., comes through in fun and laughter, in sharing and playing, and in just being part of the spirit that makes being here a SPECIAL gift.

Graduation — A Special Time

June 2, 1988 Celebrating Baccalaureate Mass.

Matt Rieck, who read the Mass Introduction, listens to Bishop Quinn's homily.

Top right: Gary Butchko proclaims the first reading, and Natalie Rich (Left) the second reading. Above: Students process out to the commons and the Senior Awards Dinner.

“Therein lies the beauty and nobility of faith: that we have the heart to dare something.”

— Cardinal Newman

... a Time of Special Recognition

Clockwise (Top left) Amy Litkovitz receives the award as the top Senior English student, from Mrs. Kasprowski. One group of Seniors shared a unique honor of being commissioned as Eucharistic Ministers. Andy Bastock accepts the award from Mr. Lingler, for being the student with the highest academic average in Trig Functions. With a smile of satisfaction, Jim Dovin glances at his award of recognition of being the highest student in Marketing and Management. Mr. Pogachar extends a hearty handshake of congratulation to Marco Sansotta for the Industrial Arts award. Some of the many students who received College Scholarships are called up before the assembled guests, to be recognized for their academic endeavors.

CONGREGATION OF ST. JOSEPH

Fathers and Brothers of St. Joseph

"The specific mission of the Congregation of St. Joseph is to serve the needs of the poor, abandoned youth, and of those most needy of a Christian education.

By their ministry, the members of the Congregation continue to make present in the Church the mystery of Christ who loves the poor and blesses the children. The members will give completely of themselves, without any reservation and with all their energies, to this mission."

General Chapter 1982

God of the Universe,
Creator of the planets,
Lord of the earth.
Who am I
that you should care for me?
How is it that you should single me out and love me
so tenderly, so intimately,
so passionately?
Is it really true that you have a plan just for me?
That I am bringing to the world
a message for you
that no one else can
or will ever bring?
Lord, what do you want from me?
