DEDICATION

TO

Superintendent Elton A. Scamman our helpmate and guide whose patience and untiring effort for the past three years made successful all of our activities and whose companionship has been a source of much pleasure to all of us, do we, the Senior Class of 1925, with gratitude and esteem, dedicate this volume.

Avon

The oldest records we have of the Avon public schools are dated April 18, 1853, with ten school districts. At this time Avon and Avon Lake were one township. Some of the buildings were of frame, but were replaced by brick ones later on. The first class was graduated in 1906, when Avon had a 3rd grade high school. Mr. N. L. Eaton was the first principal. All the pupils are now housed in one building, which was erected in 1924 at a cost of $110,000. The 1925 class is the largest class to graduate and numbers eight students.

The Avon public schools rank high in school standards. All the high school teachers are college graduates and three hold life certificates. The courses compare favorably with those of any other first grade school in the state. An Avon student, Archie Chester, won the Northeastern Ohio championship in Oratory at Kent in 1923. The school was given a first grade charter by the state two years ago.

The chief event of the present school year came the last day of the first semester when school moved from the two old buildings into the splendid new structure. It inaugurated a fine new life for Avon children, teachers and community. The Senior class and Dramatic club took inspiration and bought a beautiful curtain for the stage, and the athletic association bought apparatus and equipment for the gymnasium and playground.

In three years of high school basketball the Avon girls have won 45 out of 48 games and have scored 773 points to their opponents 193. They have won every county game played by five girls, a record of 35 straight victories. The boys have also made an enviable record, winning 40 out of 55 games.

Class Prophecy

"All abroad!" The anchor was drawn up, and I was homeward bound from a foreign shore. I yawned, I drank in the salty air. How good it would be to come back to America after a three years' stay in England and France! How good it would seem to get back and meet old friends, especially classmates of A. H. S.! Although I had not forgotten them, I had lost track of them. I seated myself in one of the lounging chairs and picked up the "English Lyre," published in London. My attention was immediately attracted by a head line "First Appearance in London." Curiosity led me to read on further. I read and re-read; was it so? Yes! in black and white, "Laura Wilford, proclaimed one of the greatest pianists, giving a recital in London. Her first appearance in London, tickets all sold for weeks." Well so this is what Laura had come to. Sorry I didn't know about it sooner or else I might have attended.

As I was trying to read on further, my attention was distracted by some one talking about the recital. Didn't they also talk as though they knew Laura personally? Naturally I glanced over. Wasn't that face familiar? While I was yet looking, the man turned his face, and if I wouldn't have grabbed on to the railing, I would have been thrown to the floor, as the sway of the boat and the shock of seeing Eugene Hubbard was too much for me. After the proper greetings, I noticed the lady with him looking at me, so I likewise returned the look. Another shock, (excuse me, although it's for your benefit, I'll have to use her maiden name) Virginia Williams. A romance that had started in high school, you know just like you read in books. They were just returning from their honeymoon to Paris. Eugene had to get back in time for the fall term at Oberlin College, where he was teaching, and of course Virginia had to come back also.

Naturally we fell to talking about old friends. They had only been gone from Avon two months, while I had been absent three years.

"What has become of Evelyn?"

"Oh! she is president of The Cleveland Powder Company."

"Yes, I know she always was a lover of splendid face powder. Not face powder?"

"No insect powder. Powder to kill the insects that—oh! well you know."

"So she started in as a saleslady and worked herself up to be president. Well, I always thought she would be president of something some day. Does she ever come back to Avon?"

"Oh! once in awhile. Her home is in California, and she flies back and forth to Cleveland in her 'Fliver Aeroplane'. Once in awhile she drops off at Avon, I mean lands."

"Where is Lydia Wolf?"

"Why? haven't you heard or read about her? She is coach of that basketball team that swamped the Canadian girls for the National Championship. Has her summer home on the boulevard in Avon."

"What has become of Eula Alten and Bertha Toll?"

"Eula is living quietly and peacefully with her splendid husband (whose name I am not at liberty to divulge) in Avon. It isn't fair to keep you in suspense, is it? I'll tell you his name, though I shouldn't. Now let me see, Eugene can you think of his name?"

While Eugene is racking his brains to think of the name, Virginia goes on to tell me about Bertha.

"Why she has a millinery store in Avon, corner of South Main and Detroit. She makes dresses and raises chickens as a sideline."

"Good business?"

"Yes, splendid. Don't you think the class of '25 certainly has been trudging onward?"

"Well it's time for Lunch, so long everybody."

Urban Gerhart

Class History

B<sup>2</sup> and B-Y's

These time-worn words epitomize the history of our noble class of 1925. The class is remarkable in so many ways it would be impossible to ascribe any one characteristic to our illustrious body. For has it not stood first in athletic prowess, class spirit, intellectual ability, social pursuits and the like?

The fall of 1921 saw the halls of Avon High honored by the entry of a class which never had been equaled in the history of our high school. Twenty-two enthusiastic freshmen were enrolled. During the year we entered in all the interesting activities, and winning honors in literary societies and in athletics.

The fall of 1922 saw the same spirited class return to their studies, but the class roll had fallen to but twelve members. Never the less those remaining in the field put forth their best efforts and great things were again accomplished in every line of school activity, our girls winning the county basketball championship. At the close of the year a paper was published by the class, namely "The Sophomore Tatler" which showed very plainly what the class was doing.

At the opening of the Junior year only 10 students were left to uphold the standards of the class. During this year great honors were again gained in basketball of which the class of '25 played a great part.

This year "The Avon Booster" was revived and several members of our class were placed on the staff.

We hardly need mention our triumphs during the past year. We are at last Seniors and have put forth our best efforts in making the closing year of our high school career the noblest and best of all. We believe we have accomplished all we had hoped for, and upon leaving we sincerely hope that our mark has not been made in vain.

L. G. W. and E. W. H.

Senior Talk

"Say, I got my new dress, oh, but it is a dream!"

"Have you learned your part in 'Hurry, Hurry, Hurry' our play?"

"My, but we are going to have a full week next week!"

"Wonder what the school will do without us?"

(Don't worry old dears there will be Seniors next year)

"What will you be doing next year at this time?"

Well Seniors, we want to give you a good send off and wish you the best of luck and success after leaving us.

To the Class of '26

We, who are about to become Seniors, salute you! as we come to our last year, the words of the poet tells us——

“Life is a leaf of paper white
Whereupon each one of us may write
His word or two
And then comes night.”

And so with high school life. Three times we have written, and over the clean white page the pen is poised for its last work. Nineteen-twenty six will not stain the mantle which is left to its care.

The Junior Class of Avon High School is made up of 11 members, many of them prominent in the extra curricular activities of the school as you will see by looking over the write ups of special activities. Ellen Pickering is our President, Alfred Barr Vice-President, Helen Conrad our Secretary (as well as star debater) Theodore Peak, Treasurer. The remaining members are as follows:

Clarence Peterson
Margaret Wells
Gordon Pickering
Carl Ackerman

Theresa Casper
Eleanor Karp
Ruth Miller

Operettas

The first attempt to put on an operetta by grade children was a decided hit, when members from the first six grades presented "In a Florist's Window" at the Auditorium May 1st. The children felt well repaid for their efforts and want to try again another year. The teachers and children wish to thank the mothers and friends who so kindly helped with the costumes.

The catchy music and romance of the operetta "Yanki San" put on the same evening so successfully by members of the Junior High is with us yet. It felt delicious to us all to be transplanted into a foreign land of blossoms, gardens and tea parties for an evening.

The butterfly dance by Florence Fortier, between the acts of Yanki San, showed rare talent and training. The people showed by their applause they wanted her to appear the third time, but we had to be content with two numbers.

COUNTY PRELIMINARY ORATORY-READING

"Father" the word died away, the audience gasped,—it was over. Recovering themselves, they applauded. Choosing "The Lost Word" by Van Dyke, as a reading, Evelyn Mehling, delivered her selection as well as it possibly could be, but failed to make a hit with the judges and was awarded second place. The onlookers were so quiet and engrossed throughout the delivery that one could have heard a pin drop.

Mary Lemrick of Brookside school was awarded first place. Her reading was "The Death's Disk" by Mark Twain. Gertrude Kalter of Ridgeville received third. Her selection was "The Perfect Tribute."

"Last but not least" proved to be so when Eugene Hubbard, the last speaker in the oratorical contest delivered his oration, Friday evening, April 4, and was awarded first place in the County Preliminaries at Avon. Choosing a subject of real interest namely "The Americanized World," Eugene with his clear and imposing voice pleased not only the judges, but the audience as well. Other winners were: Second place, James Deasey, Avon Lake, who spoke on "Latin America or Pan-America," Third place Glenn Van Arsdale, of Columbia who's subject was "Americanization and our flag."

DEBATE CLUB

The A. H. S. Debating Club of 1924-25, consisting of Urban Gerhart, Eugene Hubbard, Laura Wilford, Helen Conrad, Gordon Pickering, Ardella Wearsch, Edward Mason, and William Potter, debated Ridgeville and Avon Lake in a triangular meet on March 16. The Avon team, made up of eight members chosen from the club, won four out of a possible six judges decisions. Because of the generous support of the Avon people the Avon Debating Club was one of the few in the county able to clear expenses, without outside aid and we are looking forward to a still more loyal support next year.

This growth will continue as the present freshmen class numbers thirty pupils, and each incoming class will outnumber the graduating class.

1921-22	34
1922-23	46
1923-24	52

P. T. A. Meeting

Practically all the members of the P. T. A. turned out to the last meeting held in the school auditorium, May 4. The following officers for the ensuing year were elected:

Mrs. Murray Smith .....	President
Mr. E. T. Evenson .....	Vice-President
Mr. E. A. Scamman .....	Second Vice-President
Mrs. L. A. Gould .....	Secretary
Mr. I. Gough .....	Treasurer

The Treasurer reported for the present a total of $64.57.

Mr. Truman rendered solos accompanied by Miss G. Hubbard.

Dr. Kelsey of Elyria furnished the entertainment, showing several of his clever stunts, tossing balls and clubs, playing tunes on a trained saw. A light lunch was then enjoyed by all.

The comedy "Hurry, Hurry, Hurry," put on by the Senior Class last Friday evening was a jolly old show, sparkling with graceful verbiage and audacities. It was a delightful evening for the audience to be so well entertained and amused.

The principals of the play were; Evelyn Mehling, Urban Gerhart, Laura Wilford, Gordon Pickering, Virginia Williams, Mr. Harry Truman, Eula Alten, Eugene Hubbard, and Glen Barr.

Florence Fortier was very pleasing with her fine toe dancing, and the high school orchestra helped with some snappy music. The stage setting was perfect with the holiday spirit of the play.

Stag Party

"What is this all about?" were the words whispered throughout the halls and class rooms of Avon High by the fairer sex after the boys of the school had a meeting. Some thought it was this, others that, but it all came out a few days later when it was made known that the boys were going to indulge in some rare fun, in the form of a stag party, Wednesday, Nov. 5, after school.

The afternoon was sunshiny with a warm autumn breeze. What could be a better setting for a party? The boys trotted to a pleasant pasture land by a brook, and there enjoyed themselves to the utmost. The first thing on the program, a rope was stretched across the creek, to see who could cross, hand over hand, from one side to the other without falling in. Several tried, some succeeded, others did not. At last someone challenged Mr. Scamman, who took it up. Then the crowd was in suspense, and murmurs went around, "I hope he falls in," but to our disappointment he crossed in fine shape. Next was a tug of war between the Freshmen and the upper classmen. The idea was to see who could pull, the opposing class thru the creek. The Freshmen baptized the higher men, but, it was claimed unfair, and they were challenged again for another pull, but turned it down. The rest of the hours were spent in boxing contests. The two Seniors were asked to don the gloves but refused, as they said they belong to a League of Friendship, but they went against each other in a stick race. One of the stunts was a feat of strength by Mr. Truman, who lifted sixteen men.

Then the eats. There was a scramble for the cider and wieners, which soon turned to hot dogs over the glowing coals. When everyone had had their fill, another tug of war was held, this time the Freshmen getting the drenching. After all was over, one question remained, "When shall we have another?"

FRESHMAN PARTY

Awhile ago a party was held by the 1925 freshmen at the home of Raymond Reising, the class treasurer. The party began at eight o'clock, the orchestra welcoming the late comers with several numbers. After this introduction, games were started and continued until ten o'clock, when a pleasing lunch was served consisting of many kinds of sandwiches, cocoa, and jello with fruit for a desert. Then came the best surprise of all. Mrs. G. Reising had baked a mammoth cake trimmed with purple. On it was lettered with purple icing—"Freshman Class of 1925." It was a shame to cut up such a work of art, but with many rejoicings it was carved up and served, and it proved as good tasting as it looked.

At eleven thirty the guests departed to their respective homes and although it was raining dogs and cats everyone wondered—When is the next one to be held?

W. Q. P. '28

BASKETBALL PARTY

One of the notable social events of the past few weeks came when Ellen Pickering gave a party at her home, April 24, in honor of both basketball teams. Previous to the date, everyone was anxious. "Are you going?" "Of course," and sure enough everyone on the teams were present.

The early part of the evening was spent in playing games, which led on to singing and then dancing. Then last but not least came the lunch. To save you the agony of becoming hungry, we will not name what was served.

Another date not to be forgotten so easily.

My Florida Trip

We left on our trip to Florida Monday evening and Tuesday morning about six o'clock we were in Cincinnati. Kentucky and Tennessee were very hilly and in some places it didn't seem possible a human being could live, but I guess they do because there were huts along the railroad tracks.

When we left home the ground was covered with snow, but in Kentucky there was very little and when we got to Tennessee the snow was gone. When at last we arrived in Jacksonville, Florida, we noticed it was much warmer, but cloudy. We wondered if the sun did not shine in Florida any more than it did in Ohio. After we left Jacksonville we saw palm trees and acres of palmetto. Once in a while near a small town there would be a small piece of ground cleared, a few houses with a garden and an orange grove.

We arrived in Miami at 11:30 P. M. Thursday, and it was just like a summer night, on New Year's eve. You would have thought it was Fourth of July, the people there having a great time shooting fire works of all kinds.

Miami is a city of about 30,000, and is as busy as Cleveland. Every other door is a real estate office. It is wonderful the progress Florida is making. Real estate dealers are laying out land into subdivisions, each one being like a little town. When they want to use a piece of land that is under water, they make a canal and with the dirt out of the canal they build the roads (having very good roads) of the substance taken out of the canal, which is like stone. The government has built a canal and road of this kind for fifty miles through the everglades to Cape Sable, where the Gulf of Mexico and Atlantic Ocean meet.

There are many beautiful things in Florida, but the best of all was the sunshine. They have very few cloudy days, but it rains often, nearly every night. There wasn't much fruit near Miami except grapefruit, and it was very plentiful and cheap.

The day we left Florida it was so warm you could not wear a coat. We didn't notice the cold weather until we got in Georgia, then you could see that the people had fires in their homes, and the windows had to be put down on the train. We were very glad to get back into Ohio, but we missed the sunshine and the ocean bathing.

Freshman Reception

The Freshmen were officially recognized as members of A. H. S. Friday afternoon, October 31, when they were tendered a fine initiation from the rest of the school.

If they had not been green already, fright would have made them so. They were not acquainted with the charity of the upper classes which led them to treat the Freshies with a gentleness far above their deserts.

One group went so far as to attack their guards, and did much damage to life and property by breaking out. Nevertheless they all underwent the initiation and found it not so bad after all.

The program was as follows: First the members were given the "Glad Hand," next they kissed the dictionary, and a needle threading contest followed. The last and the crowning event of all was taking the oath.

Jokes

PSALM OF GEOMETRY

Mr. Scamman is my teacher, I shall not pass.

He maketh me to do dense propositions
He leadeth me to expose my ignorance
before my classmates

He maketh me to draw figures on the board for my grades' sake,

Yes, though I study until midnight, I shall gain no geometry

For propostions bother me and corollaries
sorely trouble me,

He prepareth problems for me in the presence of my enemies

He giveth me a low grade, my work runneth under

Surely zero and condition shall follow me all the days of my life

And I shall dwell in the class of geometry forever.

HERE, SENIORS, IS A JOB

Position open at a large copper mine

A TIP TO MISS CLARK

In lunch room—"Hey there!"

Waiter to other—"Yes, sir, how will you have it?"

Roy B.—Does detail mean to tell briefly?

Mr. T.—No, detail does not always mean to cut off short.

Fresh—Who is the smallest man in history?

Soph—I give up, who was it?

Fresh—Why, the Roman soldier who slept on his watch.

"Father stepped on a tack. I laughed,
