

Observer, September 9, 1993

While most Americans took the day off, firefighters and police officers remained on loyal watch on Labor Day. Therefore, each Labor Day, the Olive Garden Italian Restuarant serves complimentary lunches to the men and women firefighters and police officers who protect and serve our community. Winter Park firefighters and police officers were treated to an authentic Italian luncheon and presented with a giant thank you card to honor them for their dedicated service and commitment to the well-being of the community. Pictured holding the thank you card is Winter Park Fire Station Chief Bob Ferrell. Firefighter Gary Brady appears "ready to eat." The Winter Park Olive Garden staff is in the background. Observer photo by Carole Arthurs