SIGNS WILL COME DOWN

This temporary sign indicating the closing of the Lake Maitland - Osceola canal for construction is coming down because work on the Winter Park lakes canals is completed for now. The bulkheads were repaired in all the canals in the chain of lakes over the past few months. The total cost was $28,198 in which the state paid $25,500 and the city paid the balance. Pubic Works Director Joseph O. Compton said this week only a section of the Maitland - Osceola canal still needs to be done. He said only 250 - 300 feet of the canal from the Lake Maitland side has been completed. He said the city is seeking additional state funds to finish the project.
