Career & Technical Education

AERA is excited to announce a new initiative that will benefit the career and technical education (CTE) field and community. The CTE Research Network will coordinate and promote causal research in CTE to help inform policies and programs to improve student outcomes. The specific aims of the CTE Research Network are to increase (1) the evidence base concerning the impact of CTE programs and policies on student outcomes, and (2) the pipeline of new CTE researchers. We will carry out research, training, and dissemination activities designed to increase the number and quality of CTE impact evaluations and strengthen the capacity of the field to conduct future CTE research and evaluation.

AERA invites you to visit our new website at cteresearchnetwork.org and to sign up for our mailing list. We will keep you informed of research reports, events, and training opportunities as well as ways to engage with network researchers.
