Human trafficking often goes unrecognized in health care and service settings, creating missed opportunities to identify and support individuals in need. In this webinar, participants will gain practical knowledge and tools to recognize and respond appropriately to trafficking.

Participants will learn to:

- Identify the different forms of human trafficking, common risk factors, and related vulnerabilities.
- Recognize warning signs of trafficking and understand barriers to identification and disclosure.
- Apply effective assessment approaches in health care settings.
- Navigate reporting processes and connect individuals with appropriate resources and supports.
