It's 'Parents Night Out' this Valentine's Day in Vacaville

Vacaville has reinvigorated its 'Parents Night Out' events, starting off the new year with a Valentine's Day away from the kids

By Saija Maki-Waller
swaller@theresporter.com

This Valentine's Day, the City of Vacaville hopes to provide an opportunity for parents to take a night off.

Recreation Coordinator Lisa MacAllister and her team have reinstated the "Parent's Night Out" program, kicking off the new year with a special Valentine's Day theme for the kids.

The event, hosted at the Cambridge Thank Goodness It's Fun (TGIF) center, has a capacity for "upwards of 40" kids, says MacAllister. However as of early this week, only 12 students were registered.

"We're hoping this last week to get an influx of last-minute reservations," she says. "We definitely have space to provide more programming."

The kids can expect Valentine's Day themed activities put together by Vacaville recreation employees, the same employees that are stepping up to watch the kids. MacAllister says they have been excitedly planning activities and posting decorations.

"We expanded it pretty late in the evening for my staff to work, but they're excited. They're all on board," says MacAllister. In fact, staffing the event was more about picking out those who would get the opportunity to be a part of "Parent's Night Out" because of the substantial interest, she says.

MacAllister says that one program lead, Mayaika Ellis, has gone above and beyond, decorating and preparing programming for the event. "The idea of having specific activities that are geared around this theme for Valentine's Day really pumped her and her staff up," said MacAllister.

The night is taking place at Ellis' usual programming location, the Cambridge TGIF center, so MacAllister had extra time to decorate for the big night.

She says that although initially the plan was to host these events at Vacaville community centers, they have had more success when they are hosted at after school programming and their Thank Goodness it's Fun (TGIF) Club sites.

MacAllister says it was very important that Parent's Night Out fell on Valentine's Day. "It's the norm for my programming to offer fun, safe educational type of experiences that's based on recreation for our kids," she said. "We've got that, and we've got a lot of opportunities for that throughout the year, but we wanted to specifically target this event for Parent's Night Out.

"We have a lot of families that may not be near a strong support system in terms of family and close friends with longevity. So we wanted to be able to offer something for a safe night."

Part of that, she says, is extending the event to four and a half hours — well past the standard three hours. "We really want to give them the full time of an evening, maybe kind of mimic what they may ask their typical babysitter for," said MacAllister.

As of now, MacAllister has plans for "Parent's Night Out" events in September, October, and December, but hopes to make the night a regular occurrence. "We're putting surveys out to the community to get more theme-based ideas, to see if this is something that we can offer once a month across the board," she says.

"I know there's a need out there for families, so we just want to continue to expand and be able to provide that for the community," says MacAllister.

FX renews 'English Teacher' for Season 2

By Rodney Ho

The Atlanta Journal-Constitution

ATLANTA » FX's critically acclaimed comedy "English Teacher" has been given a second season.

Set in Austin, Texas, the series was shot in metro Atlanta early 2024. FX has not said whether the second season will stay in Georgia, but it's relatively unusual for a show to uproot between seasons.

The series, available now on Hulu and Disney+, shot mostly out of Covington.

Executive producer and star Brian Jordan Alvarez, who lived in Atlanta for a year after the pandemic began before returning to Los Angeles, told The Atlanta Journal-Constitution last fall that the Georgia city has enough resemblance to Austin to work for his show.

"It's easy to shoot and a comfortable city to live in," he said, giving shout-outs to Barry's Atlanta gym and eateries including Flying Biscuit, Campagnolo and Sweetgreen. "Atlanta has all the perks of the big city but is a little more laid-back."

In the comedy, Alvarez plays Evan Marquez, a likable teacher at a suburban school who regularly tangles with the principal and other teachers over hot topics such as gender, sexual identity, grade inflation and guns.

Critics embraced the show, giving it a 98% positive Rotten Tomatoes rating. The consensus on the site: "'English Teacher' makes no bones about the drudgery of faculty life while never feeling like homework, making for a biting and buoyant schoolhouse sitcom."

Cook or be cooked: Reality TV superstars show off during 'Celebrity Family Food Battle'

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Some stars align — while others discover they can't take the heat and decide to stay out of the kitchen — during the fun- and food-filled series "Celebrity Family Food Battle," now available to stream on Roku.

Hosted by Manolo Gonzalez Vergara ("From Heaven Is Cali," 2020), who is joined by judges Kalen Allen

The celebrity contestants of "Celebrity Family Food Battle" with host Manolo Vergara (right)

("Snack on This!") and Fariyal Abdulahi ("Tamron Hall"), "CFFB" asks Hollywood stars to leave their trailers behind, bringing their families along as they take part in a cooking competition made to measure their kitchen capabilities.

In each and every episode, Vergara welcomes two teams of players (one A-lister and one family member) to his ladle-laden battleground, where they are asked to create dishes inspired by iconic films and popular TV shows. While defeat may not taste so sweet, a win earns players the coveted Golden Fork Award and money to be donated to a charity of their choosing, meaning it (quite literally) pays to get the job done right.

During the series' first episode, "Deal or No Deal" host Howie Mandel teams up with his son, Alex, to face off against "Modern Family" mom Sofia Vergara, who brings her niece, Claudia, along for the ride. Now working as judges for high-stakes competition series "America's Got Talent," the competing celebs must get up from their seats and pick up some oven mitts to prove that their talents transcend talent shows and binge-worthy sitcoms.

Throughout the remainder of Season 1, fans can watch as Chrishell Stause ("Selling Sunset") and her sister, Shonda, take part in a reality-star showdown against Brad Goreski ("Canada's Drag Race") and his husband, Gary Janetti; TikTok-famous sisters Charli and Dixie D'Amelio fight against their parents, Heidi and Mark, during two rounds of social media-inspired challenges; and early-2000s singer Ashlee Simpson ("Pieces of Me") faces her mother, Mama Mai, in a bake-off inspired by the classic tale "Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory." In between, viewers are treated to episodes featuring WWE superstars, "American Ninja Warrior" hosts, impressive feats of wedding cake decorating and more.

Whether their dishes are delicious or disastrous, the celebrity contestants remain delightful throughout Season 1 of "Celebrity Family Food Battle," continuing with a brand-new episode Wednesday, Feb. 19, on Roku.

'Vineyard Jam' country music festival announced in Fairfield

From those responsible for "Dock of the Bay," comes a new country music event in Fairfield this June

By Saija Maki-Waller
swaller@theresporter.com

The first ever Vineyard Jam Country Music Festival is set to take place this June in Fairfield with headliner Jackson Dean.

"We've been planning it for almost two years," says Kevin Frazier with Frazier Trager Presents, which teamed up with Curt Johnston of West Wing Music, SPC and Solano Community College for the festival.

"It's been his brain-child," says Frazier of Johnston.

"He's very forward thinking and he loves country music and the two just seem to go together really well," says Frazier.

In addition to his love of country music, Johnston has a goal of helping students with higher education, says Frazier.

Proceeds from Vineyard Jam will go toward the "Pathway to College Program," according to the festival's website. Capacity for the event is 7,000 people, but the goal is to do over 4,000 — "anything over that, we'll be happy," says Frazier.

The most important thing right now is getting the word out about the festival, particularly about the up-and-coming artists who will be performing, he says.

The one-day event will feature two stages and eight artists: Jackson Dean, Restless Road, Maddox Batson, Greylan James, Shaylen, Noah Hicks, Tiera Kennedy and Que-

"Jackson Dean; he's the most seasoned. His last song was in the 'Yellowstone' series, so he's been getting a lot of cred," says Frazier.

"He's really moving up the ranks fast."

One young artist, Maddox Batson, has been making waves in the country music scene with 3.3 million followers on TikTok at just 16 years old.

"We got the Justin Bieber of country music coming to this festival," says Frazier.

In addition to the music, Frazier and his team are using the charm of the Suisun Valley to appeal to visitors.

"We're getting a ton of interest from the Suisun Valley businesses already," says Frazier, adding that new wineries in the area are attracting more tourists. "That valley is kind of the new Sonoma," he says.

They have also received support from hospitality businesses, he says. "These businesses know that if we're bringing 4,000 people into town they need hotels, they need food and, you know, they may stay for the weekend."

Frazier says they expect to pull an audience from Sacramento, from Stockton and Modesto, as well as Solano County. "We think that because country really has a big draw and a big audience, we think we'll pull from those areas that will come to visit for the day."

Teller and Penn Jillette in "Penn &amp; Teller: Fool Us"

2025 NBA ALL-STAR*CELEBRITY GAME*ESPN 4:00 p.m.

Broadcast live from the Oakland Arena in Oakland, Calif., celebrities from film, TV and music team up with basketball legends from the NBA and WNBA to play a fun and entertaining exhibition game. Which celebrity will surprise with their basketball skills?

BRIDGET JONES'S BABY*HBO 7:55 p.m.

Bridget Jones (Renee Zellweger) has just broken up with Mark Darcy (Colin Firth) and is feeling pretty good — at least as her career is concerned. But when she meets Jack (Patrick Dempsey), things get complicated when she learns she's pregnant.

PENN & TELLER: FOOL US*4 KRON 8:00 p.m.

The name of the game is fooling professional illusionists Penn Jillette and Teller. The question is: can anybody actually do it? During this new episode, more aspiring magicians take the stage to do just that and earn a spot on the duo's live show.

Best Bets

Walton Goggins and Aimee Lou Wood in "The White Lotus"

2025 DAYTONA 500

2 KTVU 11:30 a.m.

Broadcasting live from Daytona International Speedway in Daytona Beach, Fla., four-time Indy 500 winner Hélio Castroneves takes a stab at becoming only the third person in history to win both the Indy 500 and NASCAR's iconic 500-mile race. Can he do it?

SATURDAY NIGHT LIVE

11 KNTV 23 KCRA 5:00 p.m.

"Saturday Night Live's" 50th anniversary celebrations come to a close with this three-hour primetime special. While NBC is keeping who will host or perform on this special a well-guarded secret, viewers should expect a celebration worthy of 50 years.

THE WHITE LOTUS

HBO 9:00 p.m.

After spending time in Hawaii and Sicily, this anthology series heads to Thailand for its third season. Like the previous season, a change in setting means a whole new star-studded cast, including the likes of Walton Goggins, Leslie Bibb and Carrie Coon.

MOVIE REVIEW

Fairly entertaining genre mashup celebrates love and death

By Mark Meszoros

mmeszoros@news-herald.com

It could have been a match made in hell.

A romantic comedy and a slasher.

But while "Heart Eyes" — a clever mashup of the two popcorn-movie genres hitting theaters one week before Valentine's Day — isn't heavenly stuff, it should make for a fun date night thanks to its makers prioritizing laughs over scares.

More of both would have been welcome in this flick from director Josh Ruben, working from a script by Phillip Murphy ("The Hitman's Wife's Bodyguard") that underwent a rewrite by "Happy Death Day" director Christopher Landon and his "Freaky" co-writer, Michael Kennedy.

Their collective work owes a lot to the "Scream" franchise, including its tone, its fun-and-murderous prologue and its male lead, Mason Gooding. (It's surely no coincidence that a few of the movie's producers are tied to the reboot "Scream" installations of the last several years.)

Before meeting Gooding's hopeless romantic Jay Simmonds, we are introduced to Olivia Holt's Ally McCabe, a jaded Seattle 20-something.

Ally's advertising campaign for a jewelry line, based on the phrase "til death do us part," is dead on arrival now that the masked, couples-hating Heart Eyes Killer, aka "HEK," has arrived in Seattle for this year's Valentine's Day slayings after bloody-successful endeavors in Boston and Philadelphia. With the big day upon them, Ally's eccentric boss (an over-the-top

Michaela Watkins), has brought in top freelancer Jay to remedy the situation.

Ally and Jay already have had a meet-cute before work at a coffee place, where they'd ordered the same, fairly specific drink and then flirted, awkwardly, before going on their seemingly separate ways. Now, of course, Ally feels professionally threatened by Jay and is resistant when he makes them a dinner reservation so they can conjure a campaign idea.

Fun friend Monica (Gigi Zumbado) insists to Ally she's going on a date and makes her try on a bunch of outfits at a store, but Ally decides to keep things work-appropriate in terms of attire.

Of course, Jay HAS booked a VERY romantic spot ON Valentine's Day evening. The night begins to fall apart, but when Ally sees her ex, whom she's been stalking on social media, and his new girlfriend outside the restaurant, she impulsively kisses Jay to make a big show.

That slice of emotional theater is convincing enough for a watching Heart Eyes, who zeroes in on Ally and Jay for his next victims.

From there, the not-couple tries to stay alive while also developing chemistry together. (In the film's production notes, Murphy says he had the idea for the story after a bad first date, wondering what might have happened that could have led to a stronger connection and landing on the thought of a masked killer chasing them.)

"Heart Eyes" is generally entertaining from that aforementioned prologue — in which a young couple visiting a winery for a highly staged engagement runs afoul of Heart Eyes, as does their photographer — through its semi-messy climactic sequence in which all is revealed.

Ruben ("Scare Me," "Werewolves Within") and his collaborators delight in the humorous side of gore, presenting myriad killings absurd enough to generate laughs. You'll rarely be genuinely scared.

"Heart Eyes" boasts other funny moments, too, but you can't help but wonder if a longer development runway for the project could have led to more. (The production notes say Ruben's pitch for his approach on the project to Spyglass Media Group, one of the companies behind the movie, occurred on Valentine's Day last year.) For example, "Heart Eyes" gets halfway to a running joke involving HEK seeing Ally and Jay in another seemingly romantic situation, further cementing that they should be a target while frustrating them, but doesn't do anything more with that.

Also, a pair of detectives, Devon Sawa's Zeke Hobbs and Jordana Brewster's Jeanine Shaw — their last names an alluded-to-in-the-movie reference to the "Fast and Furious" franchise, of which Brewster long has been a part — add little to the goings-on.

More importantly, though, it's pleasurable enough to spend time with Ally and Jay, thanks largely to Holt ("Cruel Summer," "Totally Killer") and Gooding ("Y2K," "Scream VI").

As with the main couple in almost any rom-com, these two should be together, but as obstacles that, however temporarily, could keep them apart go, being pursued by a serial killer wearing a mask with glowing heart-shaped cutouts for the eyes is pretty good.

Overall, "Heart Eyes" has a winning formula, but maybe don't expect it to sweep you off your feet.

"Heart Eyes" is rated R for strong violence and gore, language and some sexual content.

February 18*Best Bets*CHOPPED*Food 8:00 p.m.

It's all about bacon during the appetizer basket, as the chefs put together bold breakfast sandwiches and Berkshire bacon. While the chefs don't need to worry about how to include bacon in the dessert round, they do need to watch the clock.

BAD TEACHER*FX 8:00 p.m.

When Elizabeth's (Cameron Diaz) plans to quit teaching fall through, she sets her sights on winning over wealthy substitute teacher Scott Delacorte (Justin Timberlake). However, her perky colleague, Amy (Lucy Punch), is also vying for Scott's affection.

7 LITTLE JOHNSTONS*TLC 8:00 p.m.

It's time for some tough conversations during this latest episode, as Trent talks to his parents about their living arrangements and Amber starts going to therapy after reaching her breaking point. Meanwhile, Liz and Brice have a double date with friends.
