The upcoming Benicia Waterfront Rocks Weekend will highlight performers from across the world of Rock from pop, rock and soul music. One artist, Carolyn Wonderland, is bringing her signature guitar sound all the way from Texas.

Her most recent record, "Truth Is," showcases her vocal range and lyricism. Although Wonderland's music is listed as blues and alternative country on the Benicia Waterfront Rock Weekend poster, Wonderland hopes to create music that defies genre.

"Take someone like The Grateful Dead," says Wonderland. "They could play blues, they could play country, they could play anything and it still sounds like them."

Sizzling hot summer: Disney+ keeps mouths watering all season long with food forward content

By Caroline Collacutt

TV Media

Whether you're looking to fire up the grill, or if you're ready to cool off with an afternoon on the couch, Disney+ has you covered, with seasons of "BBQ Brawl" and "Ultimate Summer Cook-Off" available to stream all summer long.

Led by celebrity chefs Bobby Flay ("Beat Bobby Flay") and Michael Symon ("Symon's Dinners Cooking Out"), "BBQ Brawl" follows as the duo as they coach eight of the country's most reputable and respected barbecue cooks, split into two teams, leading the bunch through a gauntlet of increasingly complicated BBQ challenges. Both lead a group of their own, hoping to outshine their competitors, gain the judge's approval and earn themselves the champion title.

With Seasons 1 and 2 both available on the streamer as of Saturday, July 26, viewers will be transported to Austin, Texas, where chefs like Moe Cason ("World of Flavor with Big Moe Cason"), Chris Lilly ("Life of Fire"), Amy Mills ("Fire Masters"), Rodney Scott ("Chef's Table: BBQ") and Brooke Williamson ("Top Chef") dig in to judge which team does it best. In Season 1, Flay and Symon focus on more traditional barbecue feasts — including rib-eye challenges, mastering regional menus and wrangling Texas born beef.

Season 2, however, adds former NFL player Eddie Jackson ("Food Truck Face Off") as a new captain alongside Flay and Symon, adding not only a third team of 'cue-ers, but also opening the door to more diverse and complicated challenges. Despite a season opener focused on traditional tailgating, Season 2 broadens horizons for all involved, diving into brunch-ready barbecue recipes, fish-forward feasts, international favorites and even "barbecue of the future," which offers the competitors — and viewers at home — an opportunity to really get creative.

Meanwhile, "Ultimate Summer Cook-Off" — also available on Disney+ Saturday, July 26 — hosted by former "Food Network Star" Eddie Jackson, offers six talented chefs the opportunity to cook their way through a series of summer-themed culinary challenges, with its competitors vying for a $25,000 grand prize. From backyard burgers and kebabs, to lobster rolls, recipes featuring tropical fruits, and time-based challenges, the chefs must present their best attempts to judges Damaris Phillips ("Southern at Heart") and Jamika Pessoa ("Unique Sweets"), hoping their talents are strong enough to earn them a spot in the next round, making for four episodes of pure culinary chaos.

Fun in the sun is promised for all foodies involved, with "BBQ Brawl" and "Ultimate Summer Cook-Off," streaming on Disney+ Saturday, July 26.

Shakespeare in the Park is ready for 'As You Like it'

First-time director discusses the rehearsal process and park performances

By Saija Maki-Waller
swaller@thereporter.com

When Nez Gray-Freeman first read "Romeo and Juliet" in the 9th grade, an immediate love of Shakespeare was discovered. Now, after years of acting and assistant directing productions with Vallejo Shakespeare in the Park, Gray-Freeman is taking the reins for the upcoming run of "As You Like it."

"As You Like it" is sometimes considered an "odd-ball play," says Gray-Freeman. The plot, which involves banished members of a Duke's court, young love and a woman disguised as a shepherd boy, can also be hard to follow. But Gray-Freeman says navigating the storytelling comes naturally.

"I like the storytelling part and being able to bring something to life for people to enjoy," says Gray-Freeman.

William Shakespeare's influence on the English language is unparalleled. Words such as "lonely," "questioning" and "worthless" were first recorded in his works, according to the Shakespeare Birthplace Trust. However, not all of his cleverly combined nouns and verbs translate easily today.

For many, the first introduction to Shakespeare's plays was met with confusion and little-to-no understanding of the plot, but that couldn't be further from Gray-Freeman's experience. "I thought, 'I don't get why people don't understand this,'" Gray-Freeman says of an initial introduction to Shakespeare's plays back in the ninth grade.

Shakespeare in the Park began rehearsals for their upcoming show "As you Like it," which will be featured at parks around Solano County throughout late July and August.

Despite others viewing the play as inaccessible, Gray-Freeman was always drawn to the playwright's stories. In 2013, Gray-Freeman decided to try out for Shakespeare in the park and the rest is history. This summer, Gray-Freeman is taking on the role of director for a park production of "As You Like it."

The dialogue in "As You Like it" is also less "flowery," or traditionally Shakespearean, says Gray-Freeman, and slapstick comedic aspects of the show make it more accessible to a modern audience.

The first show of "As You Like it" is on July 26. Just two weeks out, the cast was preparing for its very first rehearsal.

Since the COVID-19 pandemic, Shakespeare in the Park has been functioning with an expedited timeline, leaving just two weeks for rehearsals, says Gray-Freeman. The shortened rehearsal period, from a traditional six week process, comes with both positives and negatives.

The actors are functioning on less information about the show as a whole, as actors only receive their scenes for memorizing. But as the director, Gray-Freeman says having all of the actors come into rehearsal with their lines memorized makes the play feel more organic and natural. "These guys are going to be making discoveries through the text," says Gray-Freeman.

Due to the short rehearsal time and the outdoor nature of the shows, Gray-Freeman says audiences should come expecting the unexpected.

Performing outside also comes with challenges to navigate. For one, the actors must project their voices loud enough to combat vehicle sirens, the wind and other unpredictable factors, says Gray-Freeman. In addition, the play will be performed at a variety of parks and each park has a different definition of a stage. Hanns Park in Vallejo has a full shell, while at other parks a performing area is being constructed.

But Gray-Freeman and the play's 12 actors are prepared to deliver a stellar performance. After all, as Shakespeare writes in the play, "All the world's a stage."

BRAVO 8:00 p.m.

After what can only be called some rough seas, the crew hopes to get over a difficult charter by taking two days off at a luxurious villa. However, it seems like big waves follow this group everywhere as Solene and Rainbeau argue and Damo breaks the code.

THE QUIZ WITH BALLS

2 KTVU 9:00 p.m.

Trivia never seemed so off-fensive as when the Sinclair-Bryant and Behrakis families battle it out in hopes of avoiding being hit with giant balls which could knock them into the water below. The more wrong answers you give, the harder questions get.
