

Where Hope Still Grows

Palmer Home for Children answered God's call to intervene in the lives of orphans in 1895. Since then, we have helped improve the lives of thousands of children in need from all over the country on our two campuses located in Columbus, Mississippi and Hernando, Mississippi.

We've worked tirelessly to enhance our Christian mission. Our children live in homes with caregivers — full-time employees of Palmer Home. We keep siblings together, and we seek to reconcile ties to biological families when possible.

We are committed to our Whole Child Initiative. This thoughtful approach addresses four important areas in the life of a child, including their physical development, emotional healing, educational support and spiritual growth. These four areas will help them overcome the challenges of their past and provide the foundation to become responsible, caring adults.
