Pastoral Thoughts

Let us work together

This week, our country laid to rest a great patriot – John Lewis. He never wore a uniform or served in war overseas, but rather took up the mantle of a Justice and used it to help protect the less fortunate in congress and fought the fight at home.

He would be one of the few with the integrity to voice his opinion in the face of opposition from his colleagues in congress over many civil rights issues and racial equality.

He was awakened to his calling as a young man, with no sure direction in his life, when he heard the words of Dr. Martin Luther King on the radio, which called for intolerance of injustices.

Mr. Lewis would say many times in his life: “when you see something that is not right, you must say something.” He developed a strong preaching style, that funneled his passion for his brothers and sisters regardless of race, color, or nationality. Not always a popular stance.

Mr. Lewis stood for many of the things we as Christians are called to champion as well: an end to racism, an end to poverty, an end to undereducation and an end to unaffordable housing.

Many of us have been blessed to have been given a great start in life that lifted us above these ailments. But far to many of our brothers and sisters have never been given the chance or a level playing field in which to change their lives.

This Saturday, many of us gathered at the fountain on the Plaza, to pray, peacefully for racial equality in our country and around the world. This struggle has persisted for far to long and it is only right, as people of faith, that we keep this topic in the forefront of society until real reform is achieved. So, let us unite and celebrate our diversity, which is one of our strongest components that has led our nation to many great things – so let’s work together to achieve another great moment and propel an end to Racial Inequality.

Many Blessing,

Dcn Tyrone

Excerpt from Saints for Our Times

Inigo was born in 1491, the youngest of thirteen children in the ancestral castle of the Loyolas, a Basque family of minor nobility. (He would take the name Ignatius later in life, perhaps in imitation of the martyr Ignatius of Antioch.) Of his early life we have little detail beyond a few reminiscences taken down many years later. At around age fifteen, he took service as a page in the household of a relative who had a significant post in the kingdom of Castile. In his mid-twenties he entered military service under the Viceroy of Navarre. The military vocation came naturally to Ignatius; he came from a family of soldiers. Ignatius imbibed deeply of the spirit of his time and place, and set before his eyes the ideal of the accomplished man of the world: vain and dashing, concerned with military glory and the attentions of fashionable ladies. His brief comment in his Autobiography (in which he speaks of himself in the third person) notes simply that “he was a man given over to vanities of the world with a great and vain desire to win fame.”

Call the Office to arrange an order and curbside pick up. 816.421.2112 or by email stephanief@oloskc.org

We are happy to help you. Next week we will have a list of titles available through our LightHOUSE displays.

We continue to keep all parishioners in our prayers during these challenging times. We hope that you are finding peace and are keeping yourselves safe. We look forward to being together fully with each of you soon.

Rome, Assisi, & the Holy Land Pilgrimage

There has already been great interest in this trip, but unfortunately between the two parishes we will only be able to accommodate the first 40 reservations. I would encourage you to contact me at the office with any questions if you are considering going on this life changing trip.

We are joining with Redemptorist Parish to pilgrimage to these Holy sites together in July 2021.

If you would like more information about the trip or would like to sign up, please email Dcn. Tyrone at dcnt@oloskc.org for more information.
