Pastoral Thoughts

Blessings to All

Today we are blessed with hearing again the Good News in our Gospel. It talks about the finding and seeking the true treasure in our lives and then what we will do with it.

Do we hoard it or share it. Unfortunately, many people do not have the eyes to see the treasure when it stares them in the face. It can be anything in our ordinary lives, but it will reveal itself to us as it leads us to Christ.

I feel that sometimes we come to church waiting for that revelation to appear to us, that it must be some big event with a loud announcement before we will be convinced. Rather we must become more in tune to all the blessings we have around us, it could be a simple smile or hello from a stranger, it could someone saying Thank you as you hold the door or elevator for them. Little treasures await us each day if we refuse to let negativity get in the way.

We all know the people no one wants to be around, they seem to be accompanied by a dark cloud where ever they go and refuse to allow true Joy into their lives. They fail to recognize all of God's creation around them, and the beauty they fail to see.

But there is always hope for them, and you can be that hope or treasure that leads them to Christ in some small way. We are all Sisters and Brothers responsible to to give a hand up rather than a push down.

So today let us all look around in our lives and recognize our blessings, and try to be the little bit of treasure in someone's life.

Important Notice:

Please plan to join Fr. Leonard and I next Saturday on the Plaza at 9 AM (August 1st) by the formerly called Nichols fountain to pray the Rosary for Racial Equality for all Peoples. We as a church family have an obligation to stand up against injustices whenever possible. So please plan to join many of your Brothers and Sister in prayer next Saturday.

Excerpt from:

THE LAMB'S SUPPER

By Dr. Scott Hahn

I would return to Mass the next day, and the next day, and the next. Each time I went back, I would “discover” more of the Scriptures fulfilled before my eyes. Yet no book was as visible to me, in that dark chapel, as the Book of Revelation, the Apocalypse, which describes the worship of the angels and saints in heaven. As in that book, so in that chapel, I saw robed priests, an altar, a congregation chanting “holy, holy, holy.” I saw the smoke of incense; I heard the invocation of angels and saints, I myself sang the alleluias, for I was drawn ever more into this worship. I continued to sit in the back pew with my Bible, and I hardly knew which way to turn—toward the action in the Apocalypse or the action at the altar. More and more, they seemed to be the very same action.

I plunged with renewed vigor into my study of ancient Christianity and found that the earliest bishops, the Fathers of the Church, had made the same “discovery” I was making every morning. They considered the Book of Revelation the key to the liturgy, and the liturgy the key to the Book of Revelation.

Call the Office to arrange an order and curbside pick up. 816.421.2112 or by email stephanief@oloskc.org

We are happy to help you. Next week we will have a list of titles available through our LightHOUSE displays.
