The Reverend Ebenezer Henderson was one of the earliest foreign travellers to Iceland, and certainly among the first to publish a detailed account of his visit. Henderson stayed in Iceland for two years, and after returning home published his two-volume work, Iceland: Or The Journal Of A Residence In That Island. Unlike many other travellers, Henderson did not confine his visit to the south-west, but travelled extensively through much of the island. He was a keen observer who amassed a large amount of information, as exemplified by the sub-title of the book, "Observations on the Natural Phenomena, History, Literature, and Antiquities of the Island; And the Religion, Character, Manners, and Customs of Its Inhabitants."
